A Two-Governor Tiff.
Poor China's Plight.
No More Pengoes.
The Vatican Disaster.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

THERE IS something familiar in China's statement that if we let Japan destroy Chinese independence, then, as a matter of course, Japan will come and do the same for us.

We heard that about Germany once, and believing it cost us many billions and every friend we had in Europe, if we had any.

IT IS PATHETIC to read China's warning to the League of Nations:

"China plans to fight, and Japan's drive on Chinchow will mean war."

China is fighting now, as well as men on foot, untrained, can fight against bullets, bombs and gas from the air.

China's plight interests us, for if any fighting nation, with real air and submarine fleets should attack us, from Europe or Asia, we should know how China feels now.

Vengeance would be ours, and we should repay, of course, in the long run. But the short run would be unpleasant.

ARE YOU AWARE, by the way, that young Japanese are taught that this nation, by Theodore Roosevelt's decision, cheated Japan out of her victory over Russia, and that Japan must have revenge for that some day?

Sensible Japanese have forgotten all that, and sensible Americans know that Japan had real cause for complaint in that matter.

Count Witte, from Russia, bamboozled this country almost as completely as Balfour did, later.

PERHAPS OPEN war between Gov. Roosevelt and former Gov. Smith of New York is not far away. Both Governors are candidates for the Democratic nomination, next year.

To say that Gov. Smith would not try again, under present circumstances, after getting last time 7,000,000 more votes than any other Democrat ever got, is foolish.

THE LATEST little rift within the Democratic lute comes with announcement of arrangements for a series of "victory dinners," to be held throughout the country January 14.

Gov. Roosevelt is chosen to speak at "THE" dinner in New York. Gov. Smith is sent off to speak in Boston.

Gov. Smith, as most recent nominee of the Democratic party, considers himself the head of that party, in New York and the nation, and resents being sidetracked.

It looks like one of those Democratic fights that persuade Republicans the Lord is with them.

IF YOU HAVE been getting pengoes, Hungarian money, as interest on Hungarian loans, prepare to do without, for the present. Budapest announces, regretfully, that the pengoes are not at hand to meet demands, therefore a moratorium is necessary.

In the Hungarian kind of moratorium, Hungary stops paying. With our kind of moratorium, others stop paying us.

THOSE THAT NOW regret buying Hungarian and other foreign bonds will recall frequent and urgent advice, here, to keep your money in America. We do some queer things to our gullible investors, but at least our government pays.

A DISASTER, affecting the whole world, is the collapse of the Vatican Library. The heavy roof, with its masses of lead, carried with it, two floors below, the 300,000 precious volumes, priceless manuscripts, of great antiquity, many not yet completely classified or translated, and magnificent works of art.

A FEW WERE killed, although, fortunately, the library had been closed for the day. They can be replaced, human life being the cheapest product of our civilization. But the books and other treasures, if destroyed, can never be duplicated.

The library, installed in its present premises by Pope Sixtus the Fourth, nearly 350 years ago, has been open to students of all nations, under many popes, an inexhaustible field of original research.

WILLIAM SLOANE COFFIN has been elected president of New York's Metropolitan Museum of Art, to succeed the late Robert W. DeForest. The selection will please all friends of the museum.

Although young, barely 50, Mr. Coffin has devoted time and knowledge to the museum for many years, as trustee, and has filled Mr. DeForest's place since the latter died.

IT IS GRATIFYING, also, to learn that the splendid art collection left to the museum by the late Col. Friedsam is accepted by the museum on a basis acceptable under Col. Friedsam's will and will be housed in such a manner as to perpetuate, with great honor, the memory of Col. Friedsam in the city of his birth and generous benefactions.

THE NAME of Hitler may be remembered with gratitude, in Germany, even though his active life should be limited to talking.

France, it is said, is prepared to make great concessions to Germany, even cutting down annual payments of many millions.

Justice or remorse has nothing to do with it. Fear of what Hitler might do, if he came to power, and fear that too much oppression might make Germany turn to Hitler Fascism moves France.

It is not that France fears

TOOLS, BELT BELIEVED CLUES TO KILLER

Shovel, Broom Discovered Near Freshly Dug Earth; Three Suspects Grilled

International News Service.

CINCINNATI, O., Dec. 23.—What appeared to be the start of a grave for the body of 6-year-old Marian McLean, victim of a murderous attack by a mysterious kidnaper, was discovered today in the dingy, dimly-lighted tenement house basement where the body of the child was found yesterday.

A shovel and a broom lay near the apparently freshly-dug spot. Authorities confiscated the implements for examination.

The supposedly intended grave had been dug about five inches deep, two feet long and a foot wide. Investigators said the murderer had probably given up a thought to bury his victim when he struck something hard while digging the hole.

Discovery of the supposed grave intensified search for little Marian's slayer, which has developed into one of the city's greatest manhunts.

BELT NEW CLUE

Investigation was centered about the discovery of a slender black belt similar to one Marian was wearing when she was kidnaped last Thursday in the room of one of three suspects under suspicion.

A search of the room in which the belt was discovered revealed, in addition to the belt, detectives said, a bottle containing a peculiar red liquid. The liquid was to be analyzed. Authorities expressed the belief that it might be blood.

The three men are Charles Bischoff, 45, shoemaker who stumbled across the girl's body in his cellar; James Devenny, 40, his brother-in-law, and Dennis Delaney, 44, accused heretofore of molesting young girls.

Although confronted with the declaration by police that the belt was in his hoom, Devenny denied having seen it before, detectives said.

Marian's say-eyed, grief-burdened mother, Mrs. Mildred McLean, was to be shown the belt and asked whether it was the one her daughter wore about her tiny waist when she last saw her.

NONE IDENTIFIED

None of the three men has been identified as the kidnaper by Julius Servizzi, 17-year-old neighbor boy who saw Marian's kidnaper leading her away the day she vanished.

Excitement aroused by reports of a second possible kidnaping, which struck fear into the city, already incensed over the cruel fate of the McLean girl, was dissipated when William Hornsby, 11, who vanished from his home, a half block from where little Marian was slain, returned a few hours later.

Marian will be buried Saturday from St. Patrick's Catholic Church in Covington, Ky., across the river from here. Sixplaymates will be pallbearers.

Her father, estranged from Mrs. McLean, was expected for the funeral. He was offered a free air ride from Phoenix, Ariz., by a transport company.

Girl Killer, in Pen 16 Years, Pardoned

MOUNDSVILLE, W. Va., Dec. 23.—William Watkins, Wheeling "love slayer" of 16 years ago, will leave the state penitentiary Christmas eve, pardoned.

He was sentenced to life imprisonment within 23 days after he had killed Fannie Letzkus Hildbrand, on September 7, 1915, because he said she had jilted him to marry Edward Hildbrand. Gov. William G. Conley signed a Christmas pardon.

HEAR WALKER, BACKER URGES

NEW YORK, Dec. 23.—(INS.)—The Hofstadter Committee was thrown into turmoil today when Senator John J. McNaboe, Democratic member, demanded that Mayor Walker be subpenaed immediately to "protect his integrity."

Senator McNaboe's demand came as an aftermath of the testimony given yesterday by Heinrich Schuengel, resident director of the North German Lloyd, who declared that after his meeting with Mayor Walker, the Mayor frequently had assured him that two leases which he sought for his company on the North River would "go through."

Replying to McNaboe, Senator Samuel Hofstadter, chairman, declared impatiently:

"I think that suggestion gratuitous, but if you press your demand, we will take it under advisement as I indicated yesterday."

McNaboe retorted:

"You don't dare to do it."

Mme. Alda Injured In Crash of Auto

NEW YORK, Dec. 23.—(AP.)—Mme. Frances Alda, radio singer and former Metropolitan Opera star, was injured severely yesterday when her chauffeur, to avoid hitting another car, drove her limousine into a telegraph pole at Long Island City.

Mme. Alda was taken to her home in Great Neck, L. I., where a surgeon found she had suffered a scalp laceration requiring five stitches. She refused to go to a hospital.

Parents in Child Torture Get 2 Years, $250 Fine

WASHINGTON, Dec. 23.—(AP.)—Mr. and Mrs. Harry N. Riley were sentenced to two years imprisonment and fined $250 today for cruelty to their 12-year-old child, Edith.

Justice F. D. Letts imposed the maximum penalty after describing the evidence in the case as "revolting to the common sense of justice."

The Rileys were found guilty last Thursday of treating their child cruelly over a period of years. It was testified that they kept her confined in a dark closet for four years and otherwise mistreated her. The two waived a trial by jury.

Justice Letts said Mrs. Riley, stepmother of Edith, was the "dominating factor in the home." He added:

"There is no evidence, however, of any effort on the part of Mr. Riley to protect his child from the indignities imposed upon her."

Both the defendants were calm after the sentence. Mrs. Riley's chin quivered slightly when she arose to hear it.

PROBERS SCAN NEW SCHOOLEY BANK NOTE

Transaction With Depository For City Funds Revealed; Signed by Political Ally

Existence of another personal note of former City Treasurer Roy D. Schooley in a closed bank which had been favored in city deposits was reported today.

The note was described as being in the amount of $7,500, signed by Schooley and indorsed by his political friend, Herman Friedman, in the Bloomfield Trust Company, which had a $32,500 city deposit only half secured.

The deposit, according to city ordinance, should have been secured in full.

SCRUTINIZE DEALS

Disclosure of the $7,500 note, existence of which is familiar to former employes of the bank, added today to the list of Schooley transactions under scrutiny since the previous revelation of an unsecured city deposit of $125,000 in the Franklin Savings and Trust Company.

Lack of proper security on the Bloomfield bank's deposit was admitted by City Controller James P. Kerr October 22 during the course of an audit of Schooley's office. Respective dates of the deposit and of the note could not be learned today.

Other deals of Schooley and Friedman include a $10,000 note securing a $9,800 N. S. F. check signed by Schooley as president of the Pitt Hockey Club, in the Franklin Savings and Trust Company.

Arrangements were made recently between Schooley and Attorney George F. Taylor, Jr., special deputy secretary of banking in charge of the Franklin bank, for payment of the note through a lien on the earnings of the hockey team and of Duquesne Garden, which Schooley rents.

I. O. U'S STOPPED

City Treasurer R. W. Thompson, Schooley's successor, announced today that he would not advance pay of city employes on their I. O. U.'s, a practice followed by the Schooley regime. Such payments are illegal.

A bond on Charles Solomon, awaiting sentence on a charge of embezzlement from the Treasurer's office, has been paid, it was learned today.

Schooley's conduct of the treasury is to come before the grand jury Monday. The inquiry will be based on the results of an audit being conducted for Kerr.

Former Kaiser Splits Wood for Servants

DOORN, Holland, Dec. 23.—(INS.)—Firewood split by the former Kaiser Wilhelm of Germany, now 73, was being burned today by families of the staff of Doorn House, where the war-time Emperor makes his exile home. The wood was among Christmas gifts presented to his servants by the Kaiser, his second wife, Princess Hermine, and her daughters, Caroline, 20, and Henriette, 14.

Girl Hiccoughing Victim in Hospital

Miss Herget was taken to the hospital Saturday after she had suffered with the hiccoughs for 19 days. Physicians said her condition is steadily improving.

TALBOT'S BILL ESCAPES VETO BY PINCHOT

Governor to Await Rule of Supreme Court on Issue; Scores Lack of Job Aid

HARRISBURG, Dec. 23.—(AP.) — Gov. Pinchot today announced that he would permit the Talbot bill to become a law by failing to act upon it within the required time.

The bill, as passed by the Legislature, makes a direct appropriation of $10,000,000 to local poor agencies. It was vigorously denounced by the Governor, who said:

"This bill is about the worst and most slipshod measure I have had to handle in the whole of my experience as Governor.

"I recognize, and I believe the whole state recognizes, that it was conceived in politics and born in hatred, and that the last thing its sponsors were concerned about was relief for the unemployed.

"Nevertheless, it is the only measure which stands between the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and the disgrace of a complete refusal to give any help worth mentioning to a million of its citizens who are unemployed and to their 2,000,000 dependents."

SEEKS PROMPT RULING

The Governor took the action on the recommendation of Attorney General William Schnader. Under the law the Governor has 10 days to act on the bill, and the time limit expires Saturday.

The Governor announced that he would "further a prompt decision" by the courts on the constitutionality of the measure.

Attorney General Schnader has repeatedly expressed the opinion that the bill is unconstitutional and also has termed it "vicious and fraudulent."

Gov. Pinchot said:

"When this bill becomes a law, this administration will

MAN SHOT IN RESTAURANT

A man walked into the Main restaurant in McKees Rocks early today, shot a waiter, fled to the nearby Ohio River, jumped in and was captured by a policeman in the water.

Waiter Stylanos

The waiter, George S. Stylanos, 30, was reported in critical condition in Ohio Valley Hospital.

He was alone in the restaurant at Chartiers avenue and Grant street when the assailant entered, asked for hot cakes, then went to the washroom.

There he complained he could not find the electric-light button.

As Stylanos pressed the light button for him, the man fired one bullet, yelling:

"Stick 'em up!"

He fled out a side door, down Chartiers ave., across the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie Railroad tracks and jumped into the river.

Pedestrians chased him. Night Police Captain Charles Ashton followed him into the river and dragged him to the shore, then took him to the police station.

The prisoner said he was James Contos, 35, of Locust street, Pittsburgh.

Parents of Nurses Here Killed in Crash

Their anticipations for a happy Christmas shattered, two Mercy Hospital student nurses, sisters, today faced a family reunion of sorrow.

Mary and Dorothy Parrish were told that their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter A. Parrish, of Munster, near Cresson, Pa., had been killed at Lock Haven this morning when a train struck the automobile in which they were planning to bring another daughter home from school for the holidays.

Gunmen Fire on Pair Entering Home in Kentucky

Mrs. Hulda Lang, 29, graduate of the Homestead High School, was shot and killed, and her husband, Frank, 30, was critically wounded early today as they drove into the driveway of their home, in Park Hills, an exclusive suburb of Covington, Ky.

The gunmen opened fire upon them without warning, pumping five shots into Mrs. Lang's body, causing almost instant death. Three bullets hit Lang in the chest. He was taken to a Covington hospital, where, it is said, his recovery is doubtful.

A policeman, Elvin Crump, was following the Langs for protection but the assassins had fired and were fleeing before he returned the shots. The Langs had asked the policeman to follow them when they saw the men loitering outside their home.

Kenneth Creasey, who lives in the same house, was awakened by the shooting and fired several shots at the assassins as they fled. Creasey said he believed he wounded one of the men, but police were unable to find any trace of them. Police could not determinet why the killers sought the Langs' lives.

Mrs. Lang was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John J. D. Hodde, of 530 Ashby street, Hays. She was married nine years ago, leaving with her husband immediately after the ceremony for Covington where he was proprietor of a sandwich shop.

Mrs. Hodde left today for Covington.

TIES CRASH INTO CROWD AT DEPOT

Christmas Shoppers in Panic As Loosened Timbers Fly From Speeding Flat Car

NEW YORK, Dec. 23.—(AP.)—Thirty people were injured today when piles of railroad ties became loose on a speeding flat car and were flung among a crowd of passengers awaiting a subway train in Flatbush, Brooklyn.

Thirteen of the injured were rushed to hospitals, while others received first aid treatment in drug stores and at the station.

The accident caused a near panic. Frightened women screamed and ran to safety.

The flat car was running on the Brighton Beach line of the Brooklyn Manhattan Transit Company toward Manhattan. As it sped through the Newkirk Avenue Station, one of the supports holding the ties in place gave way.

The ties shot from the car into the station, bringing havoc to the crowd, many of whom were Christmas shoppers.

WOMEN FIGHT FOR INSURANCE

A contest over $10,000 war insurance held by a soldier killed in action in France 13 years ago developed today in Orphans Court.

Mrs. Harriet Hespenheide Kahle, of 5900 Hampton street, asked for her share of the insurance, which constitutes the estate of her husband, Clarence Courtney Kahle, a member of the 99th Aero Squadron.

Her application is being opposed by Kahle's sister, Anna Kahle, who contended the policy named her and her late mother, Mrs. Mary Kahle, beneficiaries.

Furthermore the sister testified, Mrs. Kahle deserted her husband.

The wife, denying the desertion, contended her husband had failed to support her. She admitted having filed suit for divorce in St. Louis before learning her husband had gone to war. The suit was never pressed.

They were married in 1916, soon after Kahle had been graduated from Washington and Jefferson College.

SENATE RATIFIES MORATORIUM, ADJOURNS FOR HOLIDAYS

PLAN ASSAILED BY OPPONENTS BEFORE VOTE

Christmas Recess Taken Despite Pleas to Act on Jobless Relief Measures

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 23.—After ratifying President Hoover's $250,000,000 war debt moratorium, members of Congress were scattering today for a two-weeks' Christmas vacation, with action on all economic relief legislation awaiting the new year.

The moratorium was approved by the Senate at a late night session, 69 to 12, after a militant band of opponents had lashed it for two days as a Christmas gift to international bankers and European nations at the expense of American taxpayers. The opposition's terrific battle against such generosity to Europe while 7,000,000 Americans were unemployed failed to make any dent in the pledges of support secured by the President last summer.

SIGNATURE EXPECTED

The bill, already passed by the House, now goes to the President for approval. Mr. Hoover's signature is expected immediately, although the House attached a rider declaring against a revision of war debts in which the Senate concurred.

After ratifying the moratorium the Senate voted 38 to 33 for a two weeks' vacation even though Senators Borah (Rep.) of Idaho, Norris (Rep.) of Nebraska and Reed (Rep.) of Pennsylvania demanded the Senate shorten its holiday one week. The Senate may have been swayed by Senator Glass (Dem.) of Virginia, who declared there was no need for haste in enacting the administration's bill for a $500,000,000 reconstruction finance corporation.

The Capper unemployment relief bill meanwhile was stranded. This measure sought to authorize the Federal Farm Board to give 40,000,000 bushels of wheat for distribution among the hungry unemployed. The Senate quit immediately after ratifying the moratorium.

Every effort to change the resolution ratifying the moratorium was defeated. The Senate refused to include six amendments offered.

OPPONENTS OF PLAN

On the actual vote of ratification, six senators who voted for most of the proposed amendments, approved it. They were Blaine, Brookhart, Cutting, La Follette, Republicans, and Lewis and Wheeler, Democrats.

The senators voting against the moratorium were Frazier, Johnson, Norbeck, Norris, Nye and Schall, Republicans, and Bulow, Mrs. Caraway, Connally, Dill, McKellar and Thomas, Okla., Democrats. But Mrs. Caraway, Connally and Dill had voted for the reservations.

There was a tremendous debate, led by Senator Hiram Johnson (Rep.), of California. The plea of the opposition was to forego aiding European nations until Congress has provided relief for suffering and needy Americans. They warned Congress the one-year moratorium would lead to an extension, scaling down of the debts and finally to cancellation.

Johnson and Nye charged international bankers would profit from the moratorium. They said the bankers, having disposed of the first issues of foreign bonds through government aid, would now float new foreign loans, always expecting the government to come to their help if difficulties arose.

THE REAL CHRISTMAS SPIRIT—By Quin Hall

CONGRESS AID ON BANKS SEEN

WASHINGTON, Dec. 23.—(INS.)—Congressional action to enable depositors of defunct banks to retrieve at least part of their deposits will be taken when Congress reconvenes in the new year.

Provisions for thawing these frozen deposits will be contained either in the $500,000,000 reconstruction finance corporation bill now being redrafted or in a separate bill, Senator Norbeck (Rep.), of South Dakota, chairman of the Senate Banking and Currency Committee said today.

It has not yet been definitely decided whether railroads and interstate electric roads should be included in the bill or recommendations made for re-enactment of Section 210 of the 1920 Transportation act, under which the railroads were permitted to borrow direct from the Treasury.

EXPERTS URGE GERMAN AID

By ARNO DOSCH-FLEUROT
International News Service.

BASEL, Switzerland, Dec. 23.—A report recommending measures of financial aid for Germany was unanimously approved tonight by the Young Plan Advisory Committee.

The approval came after a prolonged afternoon session during which it appeared signing of the report might have to be postponed because of differences of opinion between French and German delegates as to whether Germany's present plight should be officially laid to reparations or budgetary extravagance.

British and neutral delegates, it was understood, brought pressure to bear upon the German and French members to compose their differences to enable signing of the report this evening.

MR. HURLEY, Secretary of War, will tell President Hoover that the Philippines are not yet ready, economically, for independence. We must hold on to them, for a while, until they learn to govern themselves.

The question is, also, is the United States ready "economically" to "baby" the Philippines along, financing them, giving them access to our sugar and labor markets without restriction, or tariff, and let them go, when they choose to say:

"Get out, we know how to walk alone now."

American economy should also have consideration.

further a prompt decision because no money can be paid out under it unless the State Supreme Court affirms its constitutionality. Until it does, the opinion of the Attorney General must stand. But the final decision will rest not with him, not with me, but with the Supreme Court.

BILL NOT FOR JOBLESS

"The Talbot bill is not a bill for unemployment relief. It is a bill for 'state aid to political subdivisions,' as its title recites. All the money it appropriates could be spent for maintaining poorhouses, building more poorhouses, hiring employes of poor boards, or paying their old debts."

The Governor pointed out that approval of the bill would create a deficit of $10,000,000 in the state treasury as the Legislature did not pass any act to provide the revenue to be thus expended. Because of the depression, he predicted a curtailment in revenues anticipated by the state to the extent of $5,000,000 to $10,000,000, thus creating a total deficit of approximately $15,000,000 or $20,000,000. He concluded:

"I have prayed for Divine guidance in discharging my duty to our suffering citizens and to the commonwealth. My conclusion is that I cannot sign this bill because it is not fit to be signed. But I cannot veto this bill because there is a chance, however remote, that it might be held constitutional, and so give some relief to the unemployed and save the commonwealth from the disgrace of refusing to help her people. I cannot destroy that chance."

FATHER TAKES HEIRESS AWAY

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Dec. 23.—(INS.)—Once again today the movements of Miss Virginia Penfield, 19, Columbus (O.) heiress, were cloaked in secrecy.

She and her father, Clare J. Penfield, chain store owner, who came here when his daughter was found after being missing four days, had left for an unannounced destination.

Penfield said he would not take the girl, whom he found suffering from amnesia, to her home, but to some "quiet place where she could rest."

Overstudy while attending Mary Lyons School, Swarthmore, Pa., was blamed by Penfield for the strange vanishing from Philadelphia last week of Virginia. She was identified here after registering at a hotel as "B. Scott, Chicago."

DAVIS MODIFIES STAND IN WAR ON M'FADDEN

Tells Hoover Critic He Does Not Agree in Full With Edict Stripping Patronage

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 23.—Pennsylvania circles of the national capital were awaiting eagerly today the next move of Representative Louis T. McFadden, of Canton, in the spirited row that has developed between him and the two Pennsylvania Senators over federal patronage control in his congressional district.

Withholding comment for the moment, McFadden is understood to be preparing a hot retort to the letter of late Tuesday from Postmaster General Walter F. Brown who informed him Postoffice Department bureau chiefs had been advised to accept no more recommendations from him for appointments in his district, the Fifteenth.

CONFIRMS SERIOUS ACT

Postmaster General Brown's letter was written in reply to one from McFadden, who sought this means of verifying the recent joint statement of Senator David A. Reed and Senator James J. Davis, announcing that his patronage was being taken over by them because of the Congressman's vigorous denunciation of the Hoover administration in connection with the foreign debt moratorium.

In the meantime a slightly different touch has been given the situation by the action of Senator Davis in sending an emissary to McFadden to tell him he did not concur in the full scope of the joint Reed-Davis edict, which was given out by Senator Reed after leaving the White House.

Friends have urged McFadden to seek Davis' Senate seat next year.

IGNORES PINCHOT MOVE

Press dispatches from the state telling of the announcement of Mrs. Gifford Pinchot, wife of the Pennsylvania Governor, of her candidacy for Congress against McFadden were read without comment by the latter.

Senator Reed had only a brief statement to make on the announcement of Mrs. Pinchot, saying:

"I am not going to try to do the picking of the candidate to defeat McFadden. That is for the people of the district to determine. Any good loyal administration Republican will be satisfactory to me."

McFadden, who has received hundreds of letters commending his fight on the Hoover moratorium, also is in receipt of a note sent from New York threatening the lives of his family and himself, it was learned today. It was believed the work of a "crank."

GIVES FIRST INTERVIEW

—And Santa Claus Doesn't Get to First!—

MISS CATHERINE SHERIDAN . . . . INTERVIEWED AT AGE 3!

Famous Foundling Here Ignores Santa Claus in Her First Interview

Santa Claus is a total loss to Catherine Variety Sheridan. And Catherine is past three.

She is healthy, has a doll and a kiddy car, enough to eat and a room to play in, a bed to sleep in and 20 or more fellow foundlings at Roselia Foundling and Maternity Hospital to play with.

The only things she lacks, every foundling lacks. And you'd suppose her desires, like other folks', would be expressed to Santa.

But not Catherine.

If there's one thing she does want it's this—to be left in the foundling institution. And to be taken out is what she doesn't want.

She granted today the first interview she has given. For three years she shared the spotlight with Garbo, Mussolini, Hoover and other celebrities. Her claim came when she was found in a waiting-room at the Sheridan Theater three years ago. She was adopted by the Variety Club—a theatrical group. She's been adopted, feted, kept by its members. But today she was asked:

"How about Santa Claus?"

She simply replied:

"Ooh! Ooh. Look at the rain."

"What do you want for Christmas?"

"Bobbie" (a playmate).

"How about a doll?"

"Here's my doll."

She exhibited it.

"Want a doll and buggy?"

"Yes."

"Well, get on your hat and coat and we'll see old Santa."

"No hat. No hat."

She dashed wildly into an adjoining room, anxious to get away from the hat and coat.

Sister Mary Brigid, in charge of the children's playroom and nursery for 3-year-olds, smiled. She said:

"She'll talk all right, until you mention getting her hat and coat. Then, she's off. What she principally seems to want is not a home, not father or mother, but to stay and play with the other children."

Catherine will be guest at the annual party of the Variety Club tomorrow.

5-BILLION JOB BILL OFFERED

WASHINGTON, Dec. 23.—(INS.)—A "prosperity bond" issue of $5,500,000,000 to immediately expand federal, state and local public works, was advocated today by Senator La Follette (Rep.) of Wisconsin, as the best means of meeting America's third winter of unemployment.

La Follette introduced a bill at last night's session of the Senate authorizing this bond issue. He placed administration of the fund in the hands of an "administration of public works" to be named by the President. He said his bill would give jobs to 1,500,000 men before the end of the winter, if immediately enacted.

Man Shot as Fowl Thief To Be Home Christmas

Jesse Wright, 31, peppered with buckshot last night as he ran from the farm of Oliver Hopkins in Camp Meeting road, Sewickley Township, after being caught in a chicken thief trap laid by Hopkins, was in the Rochester Hospital today—but was assured he would be home for Christmas.

Hopkins, from whom Wright rents a nearby house, said he would not bring charges against the wounded man. He said:

"Somebody had been stealing my chickens for weeks. Last night I laid in wait for him. A man came down the road and climbed into a tree where several chickens were roosting. I yelled and he grabbed one of them and jumped out of the tree and started to run. I fired and he fell. I saw it was Wright. If I had known it was him, I wouldn't have shot."

Mrs. Clara Wright, the injured man's wife, said:

"He didn't have to steal. We have our own chickens and geese. He must have been drinking. He never drank until he lost his job about a year ago and got discouraged.

"We're having a hard time, but we still have food. Mr. Hopkins has been good to us. We were back in our rent, but he took care of us and we paid him up."

GIBBONS TELLS OF JAPAN'S BIG DRIVE

Tokio Army Advancing on 150-Mile Front; Planes Decimate Fleeing Chinese

Editor's Note: Hastening back to Mukden after a four days' survey of the Japanese battlefront in Manchuria, Floyd Gibbons, noted war correspondent, dashed off the following dispatch reporting Nipponese military preparations to drive the Chinese out of Southern Manchuria.

By FLOYD GIBBONS
International News Service.

MUKDEN, Dec. 23.—Hello, everybody!

Back in Mukden again after a trip covering 100 miles of Japanese frontal activities between here and Newchang, where the Liao River enters the sea. I just returned in time also, because all hell is popping up and down the Liao River valley.

Drag out the old war maps and put your finger on a flock of these spots that read like a Chinese restaurant menu from chop suey to chow mein.

Using the South Manchuria Railway line as base of operations, Japanese cavalry, infantry, artillery and airplanes are advancing westward between Ssupingkai and the Gulf of Liaotung. Boys and girls, that's the widest front these operations have reached so far.

5,000-MILE AREA

The line extends 150 miles north, east and southwest and is moving westward in some places as much as 30 miles to and beyond the Liao River. The area within which this action is taking place amounts to some 5,000 square miles.

If this ain't war, then I am a Chinaman.

The central town of Faku, north of Mukden, has fallen and dozens of surrounding villages are now occupied by the Japanese. South of Mukden a numerous contingent of Japan's famous Second Division, under command of Lieut. Gen. Tamon, hero of Anganchi, is pushing westward across the tributaries of the Liao toward the inland town of Liaochung.

Tamon is a great believer in the air force and his low-flying pilots are seeking out mounted bands of Chinese by low-diving to the ground and straffing and machine-gunning the fleeing groups, which are defenseless from above.

Further south at the Liao mouth at Newchang, the Japanese garrison which I saw reinforced to twice its size several days ago has sent out third attacking forces in a direction northward up the river, which is now frozen inland, but not at Newchang, where great floes of ice greatly impede cross-river traffic.

RAIL OPERATIONS

The extensive railroad yards at Newchang are piled high with sleepers, ties, rails and repair equipment destined for restoration of the Peiping-Mukden branch line, which commences on the opposite river bank and runs northwestward toward Chinchow, headquarters of what remains of the Chinese government army in Manchuria.

As these two major movements westward and one northward are a drive forward to push all enemy resistance further back from the S. M. R. zone, new complications have risen in the rear of the Japanese forces in the form of renewed bandit attacks against isolated stations of the Mukden-Antung branch of the S. M. R., where the rail guards' garrisons have been greatly reduced in numbers due to many having been dispatched through Mukden to strengthen the Japanese forces in the big Liao River drive.

EXPECT NEW TROOPS

At the same time advices from Dairen reported the expected arrival of new troops from Japan, which will be advanced along both branches of the S. M. R. to reinforce the garrisons.

Heavy air bombers are en route from Japan to Manchuria, which reminds me that the Japanese are trying out bombs now amounting to the size aerial torpedoes.

Reports from Japan concerning movements of lighter Japanese naval units are interpreted here to mean the possibility of naval co-operation against Chinese ports on the sea coast of the Gulf of Liaotung.

The Chinese grapevine at Mukden reports the reception of Gen. Shigeru Honjo's ultimatum at Peiping (demanding evacuation of Chinese troops from Chinchow by Christmas) while the Japanese here declare there are increased movements of Chinese troops passing through Shanhaikwan, presumably for reinforcement of the Chinese forces at Chinchow.

$1,000,000 DRY RAIDS WRECK BROADWAY NIGHT CLUBS

100 ARRESTED, RICH FIXTURES SEIZED BY U. S.

60 Agents Rout Gay Patrons In Cyclonic Rum Seizure In 'Roaring Forty' Palaces

International News Service.

NEW YORK, Dec. 23.—In nearly a dozen of Broadway's most de luxe night clubs, sounds of gayety, sparkling wit and the musical tinkling of ice in champagne glasses was replaced today by the dismal noises of wreckers dismantling the luxurious places.

An army of electricians, plumbers, gas men and moving men invaded the resorts in the wake of the biggest raid staged by federal agents in the "Roaring Forties" and the "Speakeasy Fifties." More than 100 arrests were made.

Pipes were disconnected, telephones torn from walls, rare tapestries and art treasures taken down and costly soft rugs rolled up for transfer to the government warehouses.

EQUIPMENT WORTH MILLION

About $1,000,000 worth of equipment and several hundred thousand dollars worth of choice liquors were obtained in the descent upon the fashionable resorts by 60 prohibition agents under direction of Andrew McCampbell, local prohibition administrator, his office announced.

For the first time in New York, the furnishings were seized in the suspected places under a new Federal Court decision permitting this. To make the cases conform, those arrested as managers or owners of the supper clubs were charged with failure to pay an internal revenue tax on the sale of liquor.

The law recently was upheld by the United States Supreme Court on appeal from a case originating in Butte, Mont.

The cyclonic invasion of the gay White Way's revel palaces began shortly after dusk last night and continued throughout the night until dawn.

PATRONS ROUTED

Diners were not permitted to finish their demi-tasses and cheese after the agents had purchased what they said was alcoholic drinks and ordered the place cleared of patrons.

Most of the latter were from the wealthy society, theatrical, literary, sporting or political circles of the city.

In the Mona Lisa Club, one of New York's most beautifully furnished night clubs, agents said the $250,000 equipment included authentic antiques and costly oil paintings.

They said there were three bars, one for women only, one for men exclusively, the other for both men and women, known as the "Co-ed Bar." About 300 guests were ousted from the place during the raid.

A copy of Leonardo Da Vinci's famous painting from which the club derived its name was among the pictures confiscated.

Among the clubs raided were the Stork Club, the Casa Bella, Leonard's Restaurant, and the Merchant's Club, where many out-of-town patrons were said to have been dining last night.

Some of the clubs in costliness of outfitting and style and comfort were said to be similar to many of the smart casinos abroad.

BOSTON, Dec. 23.—(AP.)—Mrs. Inez Noah Conner was back in Boston today, heartbroken but still loyal to her husband, William A. Conner, who recently gained widespread notoriety because of his love affair with May Gledhill, Canadian "ski girl" to whom he claims he is married.

Mrs. Conner, who has cared for the girl who supplanted her in the affections of her husband, returned to Boston from the Vermont state prison where Conner is confined for forgery, saying she must continue doing everything within her power to make him happy, even if it involved going completely out of his life and leaving him free to go back to the "ski girl."

DIAMOND DEATH ARRESTS SEEN

ALBANY, N. Y., Dec. 23.—(INS.)—Arrest of the slayers of Jack (Legs) Diamond in New York within 48 hours is expected, District Attorney John T. Delaney announced early today after a conference with a detective from that city.

Refusing to divulge the identity of the detective who came here and conferred with him, the Albany prosecutor said:

"We have good reason to believe that the Diamond killers will be taken into custody in New York within a short time."

For more than an hour Delaney and Chief of Police David Smurl questioned a "mysterious woman" at police headquarters. So anxious were the police to keep this woman's identity secret, she was taken out of police headquarters through a rear window.

ANDRE AWAITS GRILLING ON DEATH STORY

W. Va. Dentist Weeps, Cites Victim's Call for Speed As Cause of Fatality

RENO, Nev., Dec. 23.—(AP.)—The trial of Dr. Carl Pierre Andre, West Virginia dentist, on a charge of murdering his former fiancee, Mrs. Martha Hutchinson, drew toward its end today.

Dr. Andre awaits cross-examination about the automobile ride on which the defense says Mrs. Hutchinson met death by falling out of his yellow roadster.

SHOUTS DENIAL

It was Mrs. Hutchinson's cry to "step on the old wagon" that sent the roadster hurtling down California street hill a moment before she was catapulted to the road, Andre said.

With tears filling his eyes, he testified he did not know how fast he was going. He almost shouted as he reached the most dramatic testimony of the trial. He slowed up at the foot of the hill, he said, because of gravel, and because another car was coming up the middle of the road.

He said he must have hit gravel or a rock, applied the brakes and "just got a glimpse of her as she went out."

RACE TO HOSPITAL

Dr. Andre said he stopped as soon as possible and backed up to where Mrs. Hutchinson had fallen.

"She was lying in the ditch there groaning. I got out and picked her up and placed her in the car. I called her name, asked her if she was hurt, but she did not answer. She was bleeding. I set her up in the car there with her back against the cushion, but she slumped down so that I had to hold one arm about her as I drove as fast as I could to the hospital. They told me she was dead."

Dr. Andre denied that before leaving his apartment that evening he had told Mrs. Hutchinson in the presence of Bernard Underwood, his roommate, that she would never see Underwood again. He declared:

"All I said as we left was 'all right now, don't you two get tight any more.'"

At the morning session Dr. Andre had said that both Underwood and Mrs. Hutchinson were intoxicated on at least two occasions before the widow's death.

RADIUM FATAL AFTER 9 YEARS

CAMBRIDGE, Md., Dec. 23.—(AP.)—Pauline De Haven Kenton, 30-year-old victim of radium poisoning, died here today of the malady which physicians believed she contracted while painting watch dials in a Chicago factory.

She entered the Cambridge Hospital last October 28 in a serious condition and grew steadily worse. She had battled against the poison for several years, keeping in the fresh air as much as possible and living on an egg and milk diet.

Miss Kenton left the employ of the dial factory nine years ago. She was believed to have contracted the poisoning while pointing a fine camel hair brush with her lips. It was not until 1923, however, that she noticed the first effects of radium poisoning when she discovered several cavities in her teeth. The disease attacked the bones, slowly disintegrating them.

POPE MOURNS 5 BURIED IN ART TREASURES

Reports of Pontiff's Peril In Library Crash Denied; Sixth Victim Near Death

International News Service.

VATICAN CITY, Dec. 23.—A special mass for the five persons who lost their lives when the roof of the Vatican library collapsed yesterday was said by Pope Pius XI today in his private chapel.

His Holiness then held public audiences until 2 o'clock in the afternoon, interrupting the proceedings at intervals to ask whether the two men still missing had been found and expressing the hope that by some miracle they might still be alive.

In the late afternoon he motored through the gardens of the vatican and took his usual walk. He did not visit the scene of the disaster, which deeply affected him.

Bodies of the five dead were removed from the ruins as search continued for the two missing. A sixth victim, it was feared, would die.

Monsignor Eugenio Tisserant, chief librarian of the vatican, estimated that 15,000 out of the library's total of half a million volumes were lost in the disaster. Numerous priceless gifts presented to pontiffs in bygone times were buried beneath the tons of stone and masonary, including the christening font of Napoleon III's son.

Monsignor Tisserant said today the Pope had not been forced to move his apartment because of the crash, as his dwelling quarters are several hundred yards from the damaged wing.

Reports published abroad that His Holiness had left the wing shortly before the cave-in were denied.

SUITOR SOUGHT IN SLAYING

OMAHA, Dec. 23.—(AP.)—Police today sought a solution of the slaying of Harry Lapidus, wealthy Omaha business man and a leading figure in Nebraska politics, in the tangled love affair of an employe's daughter.

Detectives investigating the fatal shooting of Lapidus in his automobile near his home shortly before last midnight, today learned a New York man who sought to marry the daughter of one of his employes, told Lapidus yesterday:

"I'll kill you if it's the last thing I ever do."

Lapidus, police were told, was appealed to by the girl's father, after the man had come from New York four times to see the girl. Lapidus intervened, and yesterday told the man he must cease his attentions to the girl.

The girl, Rose Nepomick, 19, and her father, Ben, told police the story this morning, as the latter were seeking to establish a motive for the shooting among his political or business activities, where his aggressiveness was known to have made him enemies.

3 Servants Preparing Yule Fete for Wendel Poodle

NEW YORK, Dec. 23.—(AP.)—There are no Wendels any more, but Tobey, aristocrat of poodle dogs, lives on.

For him, monarch in an eerie, ghost-like "castle" on Fifth avenue, life is little different than in the days when he was the constant and almost the sole companion of a spinster heiress.

Behind the forbidding spiked walls and barred doors of that $2,000,000 mansion, three faithful servants were setting the stage for the strangest Christmas celebration the 75-year-old house has ever known.

In the somber dining room, Tobey's extra holiday ration of calves' liver will be placed on his specially-constructed dog table.

It is all as Miss Ella, last of the famous family, would have wished.

Two ancient high-back beds stood—and still stand—side by side in Miss Ella's bedroom. One was hers, the other Tobey's. Handkerchiefs monogramed with a big "T" were made for the pet poodle.

Then Miss Ella died. The will was filed. It left most of the vast fortune to religious institutions. It left the mansion to Drew Seminary. Tobey was not mentioned—and Tobey was forgotten by most everyone as claimants by the dozens started a fight for the estate.

But Charles G. Koss, attorney for one after another of the Wendels, disclosed that Tobey is still in the big house, still living in the style to which he grew accustomed, still being treated like a king.

The machine was in reverse and it toppled into a four-foot hole, falling on Edmund Burke, 13, of 4729 Kincaid Park. Edmund's left foot was caught beneath the machine. After a half hour's effort the men extricated the boy and sent him to West Penn Hospital. He was later released apparently not seriously injured.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 23.—A "depression party" was listed on the White House social calendar for today.

Miss Peggy Anne Hoover, who will attain the ripe old age of 6 next March, and Mr. Herbert (Peter) Hoover, III, who entered his fourth year last November, were written down as hostess and host.

A hilarious time was forecast for the young guests—drawn from Washington's juvenile officialdom—but it was foreordained that they come bearing gifts rather than to take them away. The invitation read:

"This is not like the Christmas parties you usually go to, where you get lots of toys and presents to take home, and very good things.

"But this is a party where you bring toys and warm, gay sweaters, or candy, or things other children would like who otherwise would not have much Christmas."

PLENTY TO EAT

A confidential check with the White House kitchen disclosed that the youngsters need not take that portion of the invitation concerning "good things to eat" too seriously.

The business of bringing toys and clothes for the unfortunate children of the city was quite serious, however. Grandmother Hoover, who was to preside over the party, had made it clear to all of the young guests that reverse English was to be put on the usual Christmas procedure at the White House.

Packages collected from the lucky kids who drew invitations for the party were to be distributed tomorrow through the Salvation Army and Central Union Mission.

Yesterday afternoon, the President, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Hoover, Jr., and Allan Hoover slipped away from the White House and visited the city's leading toy shops.

SHOPS IN 5 AND 10

The shopping party—unannounced and unescorted save by the ever-present secret service—finally wound up in a five-and-ten-cent-store. There in the basement where cheap toys were sold, The President and his two sons and his daughter-in-law purchased the "fillings" for the Christmas stockings that will be hanging on the family fireplace.

At the town's leading department store, the "Santa Claus" who has been playing the part of Kris Kringle for years—using his own whiskers—intercepted Mr. Hoover at the elevator and wished him the season's greeting.

While shaking the President's hand, "Santa Claus" enthusiastically patted his cheek.

The President reddened, smiled sheepishly, and retreated.

2 FACE DEATH IN KIDNAPING

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Dec. 23.—(INS.)—Because their need of money caused them to aid in the kidnaping of Mrs. Nell Quinlan Donnelly, millionaire "apron queen," two poverty-stricken tenant farmers faced possible death today.

The two confessed amateur abductors — William L. Browning, 42, and Paul Scheidt, 29—were held in the Jefferson County Jail, formally charged with kidnaping, an offense punishable by death in Missouri. The state prosecutor announced he will seek the extreme penalty.

Meanwhile, squads of detectives roamed the underworld in search of Marshall Depew, implicated by Browning and Scheidt as the ringleader of the conspiracy. Vic Bonura, local restaurant owner, was also sought. He, too, was named by Browning and Scheidt.

Two Dope Suspects, One Doctor, Jailed

Charged with the sale of morphine in violation of the national drug act, Dr. E. E. Phillips, of Republic, and Ben Latney, of Connellsville, were committed to the county jail last night by a U. S. Commissioner. They will be given a hearing in Federal Court.

POSTAL SANTA HIDES IDENTITY

Letters addressed to Santa Claus received at the postoffice here are being turned over to an unidentified person who is endeavoring to comply with the requests.

To date 247 letters have been received, a less number than in former years despite the depression.

At the postoffice it was said that the name of the person assuming the role of Santa Claus would not be divulged.

LaFollette Job Bill Loses in Wisconsin

MADISON, Wis., Dec. 23.—(AP).—A bill embodying the La Follette-Progressive party's proposals for stabilizing employment and industry was defeated in the State Senate yesterday by a vote of 15 to 14.

Industrial leaders opposed the bill on the ground that it would permit "unsound interference at this time with the prerogatives of industry to meet its own problems."

Mississippi Flood Menacing Farmers

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Dec. 23.—(AP).—The rising of the Mississippi upstream near Cairo, Ill., today provided a new menace for flood-harassed valley dwellers.

Likelihood that the Mississippi would reach the 45-foot stage at Cairo gave rise to fears lowlands north of Hickman, Ky., would be inundated. Farmers were reported moving livestock to higher ground.

Congress Won't Dampen Holiday Joy With Relief

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

Congress figures the merry Yuletide season is too joyous a holiday to spoil with relief.

Nothing has been done for the public weal and woe. The Democrats are at the wheel and the Republicans are hollering "Whoa."

The adjournment won't stop Congressman McFadden. He's made long-distance arrangements to phone the rest of that speech in.

If Senator Moses plays Santa Claus it will be in the hope that long white whiskers will fool a Young Republican.

Congress is forced to adjourn during the season of peace on earth and good will to men.

The boys can't afford to be seen together feeling like that.

After those European moratoriums are over we know that the boys will get down to home problems. Even the most sociable neighbor gets tired of pitching hay in the other fellow's barn all the time.

BANDIT SPURNS SMALL CHANGE

A well-dressed youth with a revolver who treated quarters, dimes and nickels with disdain held up two attendants of the County Line garage, Beaver road, Leetsdale, early today and escaped with almost $55.

Entering the place the youth drew his revolver and said:

"All right, get in the corner."

Hector Schofield and Thomas Neely, attendants, retired in a corner while the man searched the place. He ordered Schofield to give him the contents of the cash register. Schofield had given him the paper money and 50 cent pieces and was gathering up smaller change when the robber said:

"I don't want that stuff, you can have it."

Shotgun Bandits Loot Gas Station

Bandits armed with shotguns and operating an automobile truck early today held up J. M. Potts, gasoline filling station operator on the Coraopolis-Flemming Park road near Coraopolis, and then they looted the station of accessories valued at $500 and tools valued at $100.

Potts was confronted by the bandits when he returned home from a visit in Coraopolis.

Farmers Repaying Loans Made by U. S.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 23.—(AP).—The government's farmer-borrowers have returned $11,934,253 to the Treasury tills from funds advanced last spring to plant new crops after the 1930 drought.

More is coming in daily as the farmers sell fall harvests on which the government took a lien. In many cases where settlement now would work a hardship time extensions are being made.

Japanese Strikers Attacked by Police

TOKIO, Dec. 23.—(INS).—Five hundred striking workers of the Tagi fertilizer factory at Kobe clashed with police today, many suffering serious injuries.

Women aided men in throwing tiles from the roof of a building in which the strikers made their headquarters when it was besieged by police.

Pattern 2180

Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph 15c Practical Pattern

By ANNE ADAMS

Here are attractive lines for the matronly figure, yet very simply put together. The jacket effect of the bodice is emphasized by binding the edges in a contrasting color that is repeated in the lining of the revers and the pert tie. The long, slender panel forming an inverted pleat at each side is most becoming. Silk or cotton fabric may be chosen for this frock.

Pattern 2180 is obtainable only in sizes 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, 50. Size 38 requires 3⅜ yards of 36-inch fabric, ⅜ of a yard contrasting. Yardage for every size and simple, exact instructions are given. No dressmaking experience is necessary to make this model with our pattern.

NEW YORK, Dec. 23.—(AP.)—George [illegible] man [illegible] Brecht [illegible] ness stand yesterday and identified Vincent Coll and Frank Giordano as the [illegible] baby killers.

The [illegible] witness whose testimony the state hopes will send the two gunmen to the electric chair, said he had seen them fire indiscriminately from a slowly moving automobile into a crowd of children who played on a tenement district sidewalk last July 29.

It was the fire from their weapons, he testified, that killed 5-year-old Michael Vengalli and wounded four of the child's playmates.

Brecht glanced nervously at the two defendants as he was being sworn. He refused to identify himself before saying he came from his home somewhere in Missouri a week before the shooting and had worked [illegible] whom he declined to [illegible]. He said he feared his wife and two children would be harmed if he disclosed their whereabouts.

BEAUTY TO WED SPORTSMAN

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 23.—(AP.)—Clarence H. Taubel, Philadelphia sportsman, and Lillian Mae Erbe of Reading, former beauty contest and radio audition winner, have taken out a license to wed.

The license was granted at Norristown, Pa., yesterday. Taubel, who is 40, and his first wife were divorced a few days ago. Miss Erbe, who gave her age as 26, is also divorced.

She won prizes as runner-up in the Atlantic City bathing beauty contests and in 1928 won the state championship in a national radio audition.

MOSCOW, Dec. 23.—(AP.)—Russian officials prepared with high spirits and good humor today to attack the problem of completing the Five Year Plan in 1932, backed by the enthusiasm of a rally last night in the former throne room of the czars at the Kremlin.

This Town of Ours

If the Democrats decide to nominate Newton D. Baker for the presidential race—they will urge Mayor J. J. Walker to be Baker's running mate . . . The other night Jimmy said it was news to him—and he hoped that they wouldn't . . . Even if King George includes Noel Coward on his New Year's list for knighthood—Noel will Cholly Chaplin that honor . . . Jock Whitney just paid his cousin, Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., $10,000—a bet . . . Vanderbilt had wagered Jock that much that his enemy's show (Peter Arno's) wouldn't run a whole week on Broadway . . . And it didn't . . . Helene Costello, who quit Lowell Sherman, is dwelling on the Nevada side of Lake Tahoe . . . Warden Lawes, of Sing Sing, has already received over 5,000 requests from morons who want to see "Two-Gun" Crowley go to Hell.

It's a boy over at the William Gastons (Rosamond Pinchot) . . . Ditto at the Arthur V. Watkins . . . Greta Nissen and Winnie Sheehan, the Fox flicker fella, are That Way now . . . The Max Hoffman, Juniors (Thelma White, Marjorie's sis) have decided to dwell apart to see if it really matters . . . Morley Gracci, mentioned in the sensational Reno Andre murder trial, is Battle Creek, Mich.-bound to middle aisle it with Ann Cannon Reynolds . . . The Wingfield gang of Reno brought Belle Livingstone back after dispossessing her . . . Belle rates $300 wkly . . . They realized they couldn't operate her cowshed without her . . . Months ago we called him "On His Last Legs" Diamond.

That $10,000 hat (with black cellophane trimmed with pear-shaped diamonds) made by Nicole de Paris, was purchased by Lilyan Tashman, who also bought a $15,000 throat decoration to match . . . Horace Braham bought that $8,500 lid for his squaw, Gladys Feldman, of the "Counsellor-at-Law" cast . . . The Herbert Gormans' wedding ring is loose . . . A large literary shadow is in the background . . . Albertina Rasch's show, "The Lubitsch Revue," will have Ernst Lubitsch direction plus Walter Wanger management and money supplied by A. C. Blumenthal (the Mayor's pal) and Mr. Friedmann, of the Plaza (who is messy with coin) and polenta from Conde Nast, the mag publisher . . . The Henry Pringles (they both are authors) will blessed-event-ually . . . The mother-to-be is completing a book on the "horrors of obstetrics."

Whatever became of Jane Cowl? . . . Alma Gluck's dotter, Marcia Davenport, has finished a biog of Mozart, the melody man . . . Kenneth Stewart has a new book ready dealing with his pals, the late Bob Johnston, who was drowned, and his wife, Muriel . . . The dedication is to the Johnstons and will read: "All the characters are fictitious and I am Mahatma Gandhi!" . . . A. E. Smith, of Chicago, shelved the Repubs for the Demos because of his namesake . . . Jack Diamond would be glad to know that his passing was listed on the Stock Exchange ticker tape.

A shop dealing exclusively in smuttie (not subtle) holiday cards is operating within 3 blocks of the Grand Central . . . "Buyer Bait," a play about the cloak-and-suit-biz (now seeking a producer) is based on a gag that was colyumed . . . After Elizabeth Hawes finishes designing the costumes for Dorothy Gish for "The Bride The Sun Shines On" show, she will tour the oceans on a freighter—the only skirt aboard . . . The Ken Klings are storking . . . The Group Theater outfit, a subsidiary of the Theater Guild, doesn't pay the cast what they're worth, but according to their families' needs.

Ask the southeast corner of 47th and 7th newsdealer if I'm fibbing—he hardly sold any of the extras announcing "Morrow Dead!" . . . He peddled 450 copies of the Diamond murder extra up to 2 p. m. . . . Tiffany Thayer's next is a theatrical story called "3 Sheet" (a good sized billpost) . . . His sequel to "Thirteen Men" (his ace) will be, guess what?—"Thirteen Women," you dope! . . . Will Joseph Schildkraut (Elsie Bartlett's ex) be welded to his play-scout, Henrietta Malkiel? . . . Fourteen Hurl-Tribbers have written published books . . . Humph! Aint we lit'r'ree? . . . A lecture bureau is dickering for Hitler . . . What $35,000 a yr banking official is in such a panic he has stored about 3 Gs worth of food and clothing in his summer shack in Westchester County? . . . Clever?

Otto H. Kahn tells his intimates he's broke to ward off touches . . . Roxy says he will certainly start an opera company in opposition to the Met at Radio City if the Met's high-hattitude keeps it from joining the enterprise . . . Mary Wigman, the very social dancer, has a press agent whose wife is the dance critic for what eve'g rag? . . . Mrs. Cosden, who backed and lost 100 Gs on "The New Yorkers," is suing B. S. Moss for an accounting . . . Ooop! Beg poddin—that Coffee Cocktail recipe should go this way: One third brandy, two-thirds port, dash of curacao, one beaten egg, dash of powdered sugar—and then push over buildings!

The local representative of the Osaka Mainichi Shimbun, and the Tokio Nichi-Nichi Shimbun is a lad named Takeo Ohara . . . Is Kipling's face red . . . I. Hoffman revises it this way: "On Broadway—every knock is a bruise!" . . . An enthusiastic vice president of the Brooklyn Edison Company, makes all his workers (up to the age of 18) become Boy Scouts! . . . Master Elinson says one of the chief reasons for the great postal deficit is that in these days nobody is having a good time "wishing you were here!"

Alexander Kirkland, the excellent actor, and Joan Carr (you saw her in "Devotion") are yelping: "Oh—That Kiss!!!" . . . Ruth Weston of the flickers and Mel Shauer, son of the Paramount head in Berlin, are blazing . . . Dudley Murphy and Josie Johnson were welded a coupla dawns ago at Tia Juana, her parents objecting furiously . . . Jan Keith and Fern Andra are on fire . . . Ken Murray and Polly Walters, who were Garbo-Gabeling, have phffft! . . . What columnist saved the life of what famous man's son from a "Legs" Diamond bullet 4 years ago? . . . His initials are "B." H. . . . George S. Daley, the sports writer, started Meehan's retirement with a blazing expose at a dinner weeks ago . . . Francis X. Contest Closes
January 2, 1932

Answers mailed after 12 p.m., January 2nd, 1932, will not be considered. Winners will be announced in this newspaper. No contributions will be returned.

Bear in mind that these cash prizes are solely for the residents of this city and vicinity. They are not offered in a national or statewide contest that would minimize your chance of winning.

Act Now!

Anheuser-Busch have made the duration of this contest short, because they want quick action for a slogan to use in future advertising, so, get busy and send in your suggestions. Do it today—and win one of the cash prizes.

Here are the Simple Rules!

You are not required to buy anything. Just write a five-word slogan. As an example of the type of slogan wanted, here are two we have been using in the past, "The Best Money Can Buy" and "Seventy-Five Years of Confidence." The only requirements are that you write your slogan and your name and address plainly on a piece of paper the same size as the label on a Budweiser Malt can. You may send in more than one. In the event of a tie, duplicate prizes will be given. Mail your suggestions to SLOGAN CONTEST JUDGES, ANHEUSER-BUSCH, INC., ST. LOUIS, MO.

Entertainments for the boys and girls home from schools and colleges festoon society's Christmas tree. Among those for the college set is a tea Mrs. Samuel B. Happenstall will give in her home, Heberton avenue, Monday afternoon in honor of her daughter, Caroline Alice Heppenstall. Caroline is a sophomore at Skidmore.

Mrs. Frederick Ickes Merrick, of Morewood Heights, entertained yesterday afternoon with a luncheon in her home in honor of her young daughter, Eleanor. And her guests were other members of the school set. Mrs. Merrick wore an afternoon gown, the skirt of black satin, and the bodice of cream satin having long sleeves. Her daughter chose wood-brown crepe with long sleeves for her costume.

Debut Dance

One of the most likeable debs of the season, petite, blonde Lucile Todd, made her debut last night in the University Club at a supper dance given by her parents, the William B. Todds.

Smilax, silver foliage and gay Christmas trees with the myriad gift bouquets of the debutante were used in decorating.

The receiving line had as a background a group of redolent pines. The deb wore a charming gown of white net having the flounce bordering the skirt edged in rows of white velvet petals. Mrs. Todd was in blue lace and wore a cluster of gardenias.

Council Will Ban Official Trip Costs

Expense accounts of city officials attending scores of conventions will not be approved next year, Council's Finance Committee has decided.

The decision was made at a committee meeting when expense accounts of Deputy Fire Chief Louis Conley and W. H. Monohan for $233 each were submitted for approval. Both attended the fire chiefs' convention at Havana. The accounts, along with a number of others, were approved, but Councilmen said such practices would be eliminated in 1932 as an economy move.

English Urges Study On Traffic Control

Closer co-operation between police and City Traffic Engineer Lewis W. McIntyre will be asked by Councilman W. Y. English in an effort to prevent traffic jams similar to that during the Pitt-Army game last month.

The action was decided upon yesterday by English after Councilman Charles Anderson complained that more police were on street corners directing traffic than before the traffic lighting system was installed.

CONGRESS GIVES YULETIDE BREAKFAST

MISS LUCILE TODD . . . PICTURED IN HER DEBUT LAST NIGHT

Choristers, Garbed as Angels, Sing Christmas Carols, Reading Play Solos, Presented

Three of her predecessors, Mrs. John S. Sloan, Mrs. Carl E. Coslowsky and Mrs. Ralph W. Johnston, sat to the left of Mrs. T. M. Stahlman, president of the Congress of Clubs, at the Yuletide breakfast yesterday. It was a gala occasion—lovely decorations, the women wearing their prettiest daytime frocks and a program drawn from four departments of Congress activity.

Breakfast was preceded by a procession of the choral robed as angels and caroling in their best form, directed by Elsie Breese Mitchell and accompanied by George Miller. Mrs. John M. Phillips offered the invocation and after breakfast each past president participated in a symbolic candle-lighting ceremony.

Robert Pritchard, accompanied by Adalaine Merrill Biddle, sang an appropriate baritone solo, and there was a very definite murmur of regret when Mr. Pritchard announced he had no encore. Helen V. Irwin's reading of "The Madonna of the Toys," the drama department's offering, was given with all the charm that so delights Miss Irwin's hearers. Then followed a pleasing little play, "Christmas in the Heart," written by Mrs. May T. Neff, chairman of literature, and a group of interpretive dances by Miss Helen Bennett and Bert Layton, assisted by a number of Congress pupils. In the play were Miss Irwin, Sherrard Van Trump, Mr. Pritchard, Mrs. Richard Geise, Marjoris Evans Stewart and Anne McDonald.

To close, Mrs. Mitchell sang "Christmas Chimney" for which she wrote the music and Mrs. Neff the words, and there was a grand procession around a small lighted model of the Congress clubhouse, down whose chimney the marchers dropped a Christmas offering. Fully 200 persons were present.

City Club Decorated

The Woman's City Club rooms have never looked prettier than they do just now with their gay holiday decorations, which are somewhat more elaborate than usual. Huge holly wreaths tied with big red bows adorn the wall panels, numbers of small fir trees stand in the wide hall and everywhere there are red lighted tapers, in brass or crystal holders. Indeed, except in the larger rooms, only candles are being used for light during the holiday season and in the tea room, especially, this is most restful and effective. Quantities of poinsettia plants are everywhere. And of course there's the tree—standing ceiling high, and decorated only with silver tinsel, and red and silver balls, while a flood light illuminates it from above.

Entertain Children

MISS BRISBANE MAKES DEBUT

By CHOLLY KNICKERBOCKER
(Universal Service Society Editor)

NEW York, Dec. 23.—The main ballroom suite of the Ritz-Carlton was transformed into a fragrant horticultural bower for the ball given last evening by Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Brisbane in honor of their debutante daughter, Sarah.

The guest of honor, who interrupted her studies at Columbia University to take part in the debutante holiday festivities, was greeted at the ball by more than 600 guests, including the prettiest and most popular of the "debbies," the younger dancing men and a group of Mr. and Mrs. Brisbane's older friends.

As the guests approached the ballroom foyer, where Mrs. Brisbane and her daughter received against a background of cybotium ferns, they passed up the wide stairway, garlanded with golden laurel rope, and caught at intervals with clusters of begonias.

The guest of honor was effectively attired in a sleeveless gown of cream colored net, made with a series of flounces, the skirt ending in a train. A touch of color was added by Miss Brisbane's garnet colored slippers and a necklace of garnet. She carried a bouquet of gardenias.

For her daughter's coming out ball Mrs. Brisbane selected a gown of dark sapphire blue Spanish lace.

Many of the guests came on from dinner and theater parties, the performance of the Princeton Triangle Club at the Metropolitan Opera House, etc.

Throughout the evening there was dancing to the strains of two orchestras under the direction of "Joe" Moss and Joseph E. Smith, and supper was served at midnight in the oval restaurant at tables banked with pink lilies.

Mrs. Friend

Arrangements were completed preparatory to an extended foreign tour by Mrs. Friend, who resides at the William Penn Hotel. Mr. Friend died in London in 1929. Three scholarships have been given.

The endowment fund provides for sons of deceased attorneys who are unable to complete their education and those who need financial assistance not available from their parents. The scholarships are for Yale University and the University of Paris.

18th Ward Lecture Series to Resume

The second of a series of lectures sponsored by the Eighteenth Ward Independent Republican Organization will be held immediately after the holidays, at a date to be set later, it was announced today. David Gilchrist, vice chairman of the organization, spoke on unemployment at the first of the lecture series, to be continued indefinitely, at Weil's Hall, Climax street, South Side. Each talk will be followed by an open forum.

Bequests Forbid Children to Live With Mother

OKLAHOMA CITY, Dec. 23.—(AP.)—A will to be probated here next month provides for substantial bequests to two grandchildren of a wealthy St. Louis merchant, provided they live at least 300 miles from their mother until they are 30 years old.

Leopold M. Guggenheim, who died last September 3, makes this stipulation for Paul, 14, and Mary, 12, children of his son, Louis K. Guggenheim, but says he has no animosity toward the mother, who is divorced from her husband and now has court custody of the children. The children's parents are in St. Louis.

Under the will, the mother may visit the children during critical illness, and the children may visit their mother eight weeks each year.

Continuation of Love's Reawakening

By ADELE GARRISON

Mary Drives Noel Almost to Distraction

"Shakespeare, Byron and Whitman," Mary repeated after Avis Arlen had declared those to be her favorite poets. Her face was thoughtful, as if she were comparing the merits of the authors Miss Arlen had named, but I saw Noel give a distinct squirm and knew that he recognized the subtle amusement which Mary was concealing behind her apparently interested face.

"That's a good hand to hold," she went on, and there was something in her voice which would have raised bristles upon a more sensitive cuticle than that of Avis Arlen. "If they aren't exactly three of a kind, each of 'em packs a good kick if you get the right chapters. And Noel ought to be right in his element spouting the Good Gray Poet. You'll have to let me hear you sometime, Noel. I'd love it."

Noel tried to keep his face composed, but his annoyance was too great. I think it was given him in that moment to know that if he were married to Mary 50 years, reading Whitman aloud would be held in reserve by her as a punishment whenever she thought she needed a bit of immediate marital discipline. But such is the perversity of [illegible] I knew he was [illegible] annoyed at Avis Arlen for [illegible] his [illegible] with po[illegible] Mary for [illegible] something [illegible] less blinded [illegible] those of Avis Arlen.

"Mary," he protested unhappily. "You—" But Mary did not let him finish the sentence.

"Have you the poetry book with you?" she asked, accenting the noun with delicate malice. "If you have, perhaps you might let me listen in."

It did not seem possible to me that any girl could be so eaten up with self-conceit as not to realize the venom in Mary's voice. But that she took the appeal in perfectly good faith as a tribute to her power over Noel was manifest in the ineffably condescending smile which wreathed her lips as she looked at Mary.

"Oh, I'd love to have you with us, wouldn't you, Noel?" She made two syllables of his name with a lingering, caressing accent on the last that I knew must make Mary's fingers tingle with a desire to clutch and tear at the blonde curls opposite her. "But I haven't Leaves of Grass with me. It's out in the car."

"Couldn't Noel fetch it?" Mary asked with [illegible].

"No, I couldn't," Noel [illegible] had the effect of [illegible] growl. And Avis Arlen put a protecting hand on his arm.

"Never mind the book," she [illegible] own [illegible].

Noel's [illegible] that [illegible] Mary's [illegible] of [illegible] the wonderful [illegible] Hank. She [illegible] Avis Arlen's [illegible] admiration. [illegible] what Walt [illegible] has done for [illegible].

She whirled [illegible] and I saw Avis Arlen's eyes follow her [illegible] of any new feminine acquaintance. I wondered if she were keen enough to sense the [illegible] quality of Mary's [illegible] through the confessions she was making to Hank's [illegible] schoolboy [illegible]. But I soon saw that her mental equipment was not equal to that deduction, for [illegible] Mary and Hank for a few seconds, a satisfied [illegible] with the parent wise [illegible].

[illegible] Noel's innate courtesy [illegible] But [illegible] Avis Arlen [illegible] which the most daring of the [illegible] have affected.

As I watched her I knew what [illegible] that she had [illegible] Dicky's [illegible] worked at evening. Not for a single second did she [illegible] man [illegible] or talk to him without [illegible] her purpose [illegible] and [illegible] rather [illegible] to be less popular with men, it was most effective. I wondered if any of the men [illegible] this situation ever experienced [illegible] emotion [illegible] ownership was as [illegible] during the summer he had been a distinct [illegible] in her train.

Did Mary realize the truth? I wondered. [illegible] did that clinging [illegible] arm around Noel's neck, that rapt look upon the [illegible] strengthen [illegible] I knew had [illegible] fallen under the sway of Avis Arlen.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Christmas Gift

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. I have been going about with a young man since last March. His birthday is right after Christmas. Do you think I should give him two gifts?

2. Also, what should I give his mother? M. S.

1. One present would be enough, I should think, for it certainly would look forced to send another present directly after you had sent a Christmas present. And unless you are engaged to the young man, be sure that the Christmas present that you choose to send him is not too intimate or personal or consequential a present.

You might, for the young man's birthday, write him a birthday note of greetings and congratulations.

2. You don't tell me how much you know the mother and if, in your opinion, a present wouldn't be forced. Unless you know the mother especially well, it would be in best form for you to send her a card rather than a present.

Formal Attire

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. At a semi-formal sorority dance should the members or the officers wear formal gowns to distinguish them from the rest?

2. Is it permissible for a man to wear a business suit when his partner wears a strictly formal gown, or a semi-formal dinner gown?

3. Should the young lady always pay for a ticket if she invites the young man to accompany her? DOT

1. No. They too should dress according to the degree of formality or informality of the occasion.

2. No. If the occasion is a strictly formal one, the woman wears a formal evening gown and the man wears a formal evening dress, that is, tail coat. If the occasion is rather informal, the woman wearing a "semi-formal dinner gown," the man wears a dinner jacket.

3. If the dance is given by her sorority, she should buy the tickets.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Heart Murmur in Child Need Not Cause Alarm

Dr. Copeland

Mark Twain used to say that everybody talks about the weather but nobody does anything about it. We talk a lot about certain diseases, but regarding some of them we do little.

Recent statistics show there is a definite increase in the number of cases of heart disease in children. Much has been said about this, yet little has been accomplished to relieve the situation.

I believe the application of a lot of plain, ordinary, common sense to this problem would be of great value. Many a mother has been told by the doctor that her child has a "murmur" of the heart. Immediately she is convinced that the child has heart disease and probably won't live long.

The term "heart disease" is cruel and harsh. It frightens the mother and handicaps the child by creating the impression that a hopeless condition is present.

Technically speaking, the term "heart disease" should be applied only to a heart that is diseased and actually damaged. This is not the case in heart murmur. There are many, many persons who have had heart murmurs since early childhood and yet have lived to ripe old age. In numerous cases the murmur has not been diagnosed. Its presence has been overlooked because there has been almost no trouble from it.

Just what is the meaning of a heart murmur in a child? It means that the valves of the heart have been slightly damaged. It does not mean that the heart muscle is diseased.

Usually the damage was caused by an infection of some kind. This may have been from acute rheumatic fever, St. Vitus' dance, scarlet fever or an attack of any one of the common infectious diseases of childhood.

The presence of murmur does not mean that the child should be pampered and made an invalid. As the child grows older, he must be taught the facts about his condition and that he should not indulge in excessive or severe exercise.

It used to be the practice to deny the child with a heart murmur any strenuous play. Now some of the authorities on this subject go so far as to say that exercise, when done in moderation, is advantageous.

The important thing is to determine whether or not there is an infection anywhere in the body. For example, diseased tonsils are a menace. Enlarged and "pussy" tonsils should be removed. Such tonsils, as well as adenoids, are always a constant menace. They may be a source of infection and possible danger to the heart.

Children having heart murmur should receive proper nourishment and plenty of fresh air and outdoor sunshine. They should not be exposed to unnecessary cold or to sudden weather changes.

The value of regular physical examinations for these children cannot be overstated. Children who have been observed over a period of from 15 to 20 years, and have received proper medical supervision, have grown to sturdy and healthy adult life.

During this period of observation the size and action of the heart, the pulse rate and blood pressure are recorded.

Children's Ungratefulness Often Fault of Parents

Why are kids "ungrateful"? Why do they take it as a matter of course when poor, tired Mom sits up till 1 a. m. sewing on a new dress, so Hetty can go to the class party—

Or when Pop goes without the new shoes he needs, so Billy can have the ball suit he's been teasing for—

And not only dash off without saying "thank you," but crab because they don't get more?

Is it because they're just greedy, selfish little animals? Or are Mam 'n' Pop themselves responsible for their lack of appreciation?

Can you give Mother Rogers a tip about it?

PLANNED FOR CHILDREN

"My Dear Sally Martin:

"I wonder if you can tell me—why are youngsters such ungrateful little animals?

"I just want to tell you about our two, and see if maybe you can tell what is wrong with them and what can be done about it.

"First, there is the girl. She's 16, and not long ago her class in high school gave a party.

"My husband and I both belonged to poor, hard-working people ourselves, so we missed a good many good times when we were young, and we have always tried to plan so our young ones wouldn't have to go without, as we did.

"So when this school party came up, and my girl needed a new dress, I made it. I sat up till 1 o'clock the night before the party, working, so I would be sure to get it finished.

UNAPPRECIATIVE

"But did she say 'thank you' for that? Oh, dear no! She just took it as if it were something she had a right to expect! And crabbed because I didn't get her new slippers, too!

"Then there's the boy. He's two years younger. His bunch was getting up a football team, and there were things he had to have to be in it. His father really needed shoes, but he put off getting them, to buy Don these things. And Don didn't say thanks, any more than his sister did!

"And now he's teasing for some sort of trick camera, and refuses to see any reason why he can't have it, although we have tried to make him see that we can't afford it just now.

"What on earth ails children, nowadays? Why, either his father or I would have just about fainted from joy if our folks had ever given us the things they seem to think are theirs by right!

"NINA ROGERS."

What ails 'em, sister? You ail 'em! And Papa ails 'em! Yes, I mean that, seriously.

You have given them everything, without any effort on their part. Why shouldn't they think they're entitled to them? Why should they be "grateful," when you have never taught them anything about the effort it took to give them these things?

None of us is born "grateful." We're born with the notion that the world is our oyster, and owes us whatever we think we need. That is natural in a baby. He doesn't know anything about other lives or their rights. That is something he has to learn.

But you didn't let your youngsters learn that lesson. You were so loving and anxious to "make them happy" that you shielded them carefully from everything that might have taught them their rightful place in the scheme of things.

And now they're ungrateful? How could they be otherwise?

What'll you do? Teach them better! Make them earn the things they want. See that they have chores to do around the house. See that they do things for you.

They'll probably buck like a couple of bay steers, but it'll make a man and a woman of them!

Some Take Longest Way Round to Reach Goal of Happiness, Says Fay King

By FAY KING

He fell in love with her long ago, but her ambition made her prefer to pursue the rosy dreams she had of being a great actress.

She wanted no humdrum life of domesticity. Hers was to be a life of glory and greatness.

But like so many with a measure of talent which is note quite enough, it was a futile struggle.

A small part in a successful show, and many big parts in unsuccessful ones.

And one day she realized the futility of it all, and he who had loved her long ago was still waiting.

The other day they were married.

And she will be happy now!

Sometimes one takes the longest way round to reach the goal of happiness.

By HELEN FOLLETT

Goose pimples on the arms pack up and git if the arms are scrubbed vigorously and circulation stimulated. Alchohol rubs are helpful, too, as are oil baths (cocoanut oil is good) and friction with boric talcum powder.

For the special evening date, the hough surface can be covered up by calcimining with a liquid powder to match the color of the skin.

Face-lifting is a scientific job. It is being done all the time, with happy results, but one cannot be too careful in the choice of the surgeon. Incisions are made at the temples back of the hair line, the flesh is lifted, a tuck taken and snipped out, flesh stitched together again.

-:- Household Hints -:-

To prevent silver from tarnishing, when it is kept in a drawer, place among it a few pieces of camphor.

Make your own luggage labels from old linen collars. They are stronger than any you can buy and you can make them the size that you require.

Do not put away saucepan lids on the pans. They should be hung up in an airy part of the kitchen.

If a large lump of soda is kept in the sink and the water allowed to run over it, the pipes will never become choked with grease.

When baking potatoes always prick them with a fork before putting them in the oven.

When storing saucepans, care should be taken to turn them upside down and to leave a little protruding over the edge of the shelf. This allows the air to get under them.

Bid Your Values

Not long ago any holder of A's hand would have bid 1-No Trump after Z had passed on the hand given below. A wise player in Y's position would have passed; of course, B must have passed, and Y-Z would have defeated the contract two tricks. In case Y did bid over the 1-No Trump, knowing that his partner was weak from his pass, A could make an informatory double; B would prefer bidding 2-Spades, to 2-Diamonds, and if A dared jump the declaration to 4-Spades, game would result.

Y:
♠ 9 6
♥ K Q 9 7 6 3
♣ A 8
♦ A 9 4

A:
♠ K Q 7 4
♥ A 8

B:
♠ J 10 3 2

♣ Q 6 5 2
♦ 10 6 5 3

Z:
♠ A 8 5
♥ J 5 4 2
♣ 9 7 4
♦ 8 7 2

Now A would prefer an opening bid of 2-Spades, if playing The Official System, because his hand counts 14 points, or 7 probable tricks (spades 4; hearts 3; clubs 3; and diamonds 5; total 14). Y should overcall with 3-Hearts; B lacks sufficient strength to assist an opening bid of 1-Spade, but he holds cards worth 7 points (Spades 3, Hearts 2, Clubs 1, Diamonds 1; total 7 points, or 3½ probable assisting tricks). Of course Z has nothing resembling an honest assist; his best chance to save game is to pass, hoping that A will not dare bid the limit. After Y has bid hearts, all promotional value vanishes from A's ace of that suit, so that his hand counts only 13 points, but with B's voluntary assist, A should venture bidding 4-Spades, which can just be made. Remember that you cannot score games unless you bid them; going down a trick is less serious than missing a reasonable possible game score.

On the hand shown below Z opened bidding with 1-Spade; he belonged to the school of those who will not bid suits without tops. A bid 2-Hearts, and Y jumped the contract to 4-Spades, ending contracting.

Soon the full play of the hand will be given, but in the meanwhile lay out the cards. A's opening lead was the ace of hearts; how many tricks can be won against any defense open to A-B?

The Loudspeaker

By LOUIS REID

NEW YORK, Dec. 23.—So the radio shahs have finally snared Von Hindenburg, are leading him rather reluctantly to the gesellschaft of world figures who have cleared their throats on the microphones.

On New Year's Eve at that . . . A greeting from the grizzled old warrior and then a prosit over the needle beer . . . Gradually the list of great names outside the radio corral is lessening. Only Stalin, Alfonso, Hitler, Ludendorff are left . . . They say Cesar Searchinger has been hot on the hunt of Ludendorff. But he shies at radio as he shies at newspapermen, though Searchinger did catch him for a press interview once by telling him that he wanted to talk to the "most vivid personality in Europe." Ludendorff couldn't resist that . . . Wonder how Hitler sounds. We almost knew last week.

* * *

The lampooning of the Gridiron Club makes good reading. It would make good hearing, but the broadcasters have no hope of capturing it . . . There's hardly a festivity, however, in the land that has not been transferred to the eardrums. The publicity is so welcome . . . The Gridiron Club doesn't want publicity, hence its silence on the air . . . Thought there'd be something startling from Dr. Savage, of the Carnegie Foundation, concerning football overemphasis. Dr. Savage was discretion bent backward. Don't hear many coloratures any more . . . Sea tales on the air ought to be more authentic now with Count Felix von Luckner telling them . . . Most authentic atmposhere in radio sketches to date is that conveyed in the rural cabin of Seth Parker and the East Side hovel of the Goldbergs. . . . New York is also to have a chance at attending Paul Whiteman's new highbrow recital. Attention-callers are already getting busy.

CHRISTMAS ACTIVITY IN DISTRICT

Celebrating Christmas in the manner of their native lands, a group of newcomers to the United States, many here only a year, brought a European atmosphere to International Institute, 405 South Dithridge street, yesterday. Included on the picturesque Yuletide program were folk songs and dances of many nations with the participants costumed in the prevailing mode of their native lands.

The institute, a branch of the Young Women's Christian Association, is served by a staff of secretaries speaking 18 languages and specializes in aiding newcomers to the country to adjust themselves.

Urging that parents of needy families be consulted by prospective Christmas benefactors, the Christmas committee of the Pittsburgh Federation of Social Agencies today pointed out that in this way the most needed articles will be given the families. Benefactors were also urged to clear the names of the families aided through the Social Service Exchange, Wabash Building, Court 2952, to prevent duplication.

The Christmas seal sale of the Tuberculosis League of Pittsburgh, proceeds from which are used to combat tuberculosis in Allegheny County, closes tomorrow.

All returns from the sale should be made tomorrow, Chairman John F. Casey said, and persons who still have seals must account for all sent out. Either seals or money should be returned. Persons who have not received seals can obtain them at headquarters, Bedford avenue and Wandless street.

An appeal for castoff clothing is being made by the Parting of the Ways Home, 216 East Stockton avenue, North Side, in connection with its annual membership drive. The need for clothing for the former prisoners cared for at the home, according to Mrs. Rollo H. McBride, acting superintendent, is so great that in cold weather the inmates cannot go outdoors without menacing their health.

Western Pennsylvania students attending the Salvation Army's New York training college will return home tomorrow to spend their Christmas vacation. They are Miss Beatrice Fowle, Miss Doris Fowle, Miss Vera Morton and Herbert Smith, Pittsburgh; Miss Ona Angus, New Kensington; Miss Catherine Winton, Tarentum; Miss Jessie Lotshbaugh and Miss Mary Woodley, Bradford; Miss Priscilla Wheatley, Johnstown, and Miss Ella Miller, Indiana.

Legislators Broaden Scope of Conference Here Tonight

COUNTY AWAITS LEGALITY RULING ON TUBE PROJECT

CIVIC LEADERS INVITED TO MEETING

Ideas for Ways to Assist Unemployed Sought at City-County Bldg. Parley

Civic leaders and economists with ideas for legislative action to aid the unemployed and needy have been asked to meet with Senators and Representatives of Western Pennsylvania tonight in the Bar Association rooms in the City-County Building at 8:15. Suggestions will be invited at the conference in an effort to unravel the snarl over relief now existing in the Legislature organization majority in the Legislature and Gov. Pinchot.

Originally intended only as a meeting of the Allegheny County legislative delegation, Senator Morris Einstein, chairman, yesterday widened the call to include practically every member west of the Allegheny Mountains. A number of resolutions have been prepared for consideration of the conference, one suggesting a lengthening of the session of the Legislature in order to pass a real relief plan.

Objection to extending the session is raised among some members because of Gov. Pinchot's refusal to expand the scope of the special session call, insisting that only the measures he outlined shall be dealt with. Two of these included tax increases on gasoline and cigarets, and majority sentiment is against any present tax raise.

The apparent futility of the Talbot $10,000,000 direct relief bill now before the Governor, will be another subject tonight. By the Governor's advisers the bill is held unconstitutional, and there is little chance the fiscal officers of the state would pay out any money under its provisions.

LENZ GAINS IN BRIDGE TILT

NEW YORK, Dec. 23.—(AP.)—Ely Culbertson and Theodore A. Lightner move to the Waldorf tonight, 10,705 points ahead, for the second half of a 150-rubber match between a team representing the Culbertson system of contract bridge and Sidney S. Lenz and Oswald Jacoby, playing the Lenz system.

Second best in the matter of penalties in the eleventh and final session at the Chatham, ending early today, Culbertson and Lightner lost 415 points and five of nine rubbers. The rubber standing of the series became 42 for Culbertson's side and 36 for Lenz and Jacoby, the points 70,255 and 59,550 respectively.

Culbertson and Lightner were penalized 2,600 points during the session, compared with 2,200 for their rivals. One set of 900 came at once against Culbertson, another of 600. Lightner also went down 600 in a lump. In a futile effort to save the last rubber of the session the side lost 1,250 in three straight hands.

Bridge Players' Brains Are Dealt Grand Slam

NEW YORK, Dec. 23.—(INS.)—Taking cognizance of the American craze for playing bridge, Dr. Charles Gray Shaw, professor of philosophy at New York University, today dealt a grand slam to the army of devotees of the game.

Bridge may require brains, but the quality of the Gray matter it developes is not worth cultivating, according to professor Shaw, who not long ago drew nation-wide attention by declaring that all whistlers are morons. Dr. Shaw declared:

"The main trouble with the habitual bridge player is that he lacks adequate emotional power and is forced to play cards to stimulate his limp nerves. The normal, healthy person, who gets a 'kick' out of life at every corner, has no need of such artificial nerve tonics."

Reward Given Capt. Schnurr Goes to Poor

CAPT. JOHN H. SCHNURR

Leader in Capture of Slayer Sends Check To 'Little Sisters'

Police Capt. John H. Schnurr's $200 share of the $1,000 reward for the capture of David Bedford, who shot and killed a clerk in a Walgreen drug store robbery will be turned over today to the Little Sisters of the Poor as the officer's Christmas gift to the institution.

The Captain received the largest share of the sum divided among nine policemen for the capture of Bedford last August. He sent his check to the Sun-Telegraph last night to be turned over to the institution. He said:

"My part in the capture was my duty. The reward was incidental, and it is a pleasure to turn it over to the Little Sisters of the Poor. I am satisfied that it is a deserving cause."

Capt. Schnurr led the squad of Center avenue police who captured Bedford after the suspect had leaped over rooftops in the lower Wylie avenue district. Bedford was taken after a chase of several blocks.

Recently he pleaded guilty of the murder of Harry Seigal, clerk in Walgreen's Sixth avenue store, during a holdup of the establishment. He was sentenced to life imprisonment.

Following the killing, the Walgreen interests offered a $1,000 reward for the capture of the bandits.

Gun Threat Carries Address of Sender

An hour after H. L. Frye, of 220 Charles street, Knoxville, last night, gave city detectives a letter threatening him with a bullet if he sat between a window and a light at his home, George F. Henning, of 46 Gregory street, was under arrest as the alleged author.

Today he was held over pending investigation by the postal authorities. A discharged employe of Frye, Henning admitted writing the letter, but denied he intended carrying out the threat.

BROTHERS FREE OF RACE BOOK CHARGES

Jury Acquits Levines After Witnesses Say Downtown Place Was Novelty Store

Nathan Levine, 35, and Sam Levine, 40, brothers, of Wightman street, stood acquitted today of a charge of running a gambling house at 546 Smithfield street. A jury in Criminal Court returned the verdict after deliberating an hour.

The brothers did not deny the charge, and did not take the witness stand themselves, instead calling character witnesses, some of whom testified they had bought novelties in wholesale quantities at the Levine establishment. Police charged the Levines operated a business of taking bets on horse races.

Last August 20, Harry Whitney, 33, of Climax street, was arrested charged with robbery, and it was charged he had entered the Levine place, wearing a mask and flourishing a gun, and attempted to hold it up. He was felled with a chair after he had pocketed $7. He pleaded no defense before Judge James H. Gray, and his sentence was suspended until the Levines had been tried.

Whitney, a painter by trade, testified he had been employed to paint the place and while thus engaged discovered it was a betting resort. He said he placed a small bet and won. Then he bet $3 and won $54, he declared, but the Levines refused to pay him. Several times he returned demanding his money and finally, he said, he determined to get it by holding the place up.

District Attorney Andrew T. Park, hearing Whitney's story, assigned County Detective Lawrence Kline to investigate. Kline visited the place October 2, and reported seizing racing forms. Kline testified several telephones were rigged up over which race result reports were supposed to come. This and a repetition of Whitney's story completed the State's case.

MISSION ASKS 3,000 GIFTS

A last minute appeal for toys so that every child on their list might receive a Christmas gift, was made today by George L. Bond, head of the Toy Mission, Third avenue and Market street. With virtually every toy in their shop promised, Bond said approximately 3,000 children are yet to be provided for.

More toys have been received this year at the mission than in any previous year, but there are more children to be provided with gifts, he said.

Bond, John E. Potter, banker, and several other men are busy each night at the mission, packing the toys for families in all parts of the city. During the day, Mrs. Potter, Mrs. R. L. Ehmann and Mrs. F. A. Schade, with several other women, work at mending dolls.

Miss Elizabeth Barr, 84, of the Presbyterian Home at Glenshaw sent her contribution to the mission this week. Working for several months, Miss Barr made complete outfits of clothing for 50 dolls.

A special meeting of Council was to be held this afternoon to approve the budget committee's action in slashing the 1932 tax levy 2½ mills.

SIFT QUESTIONS RAISED BY SOLICITOR

Railways Offer to Rebuild Span, Tunnel for Auto Traffic Prompts Inquiry

County Commissioners Edward V. Babcock and C. C. McGovern are awaiting recommendations from their lawyers and engineers how to comply with legal requirements in buying the Wabash bridge and tunnel from the Pittsburgh and West Virginia Railway Company for $4,200,000. They would be used as vehicular traffic arteries. The company recently offered to do all construction work and turn the property over to the county for $4,200,000.

County Solicitor M. B. Lesher yesterday raised a legal question on the company's proposal. He believed it a violation of the competitive bidding act if the county agreed to the company letting contracts to make the property available for vehicle traffic. Lesher said the law might assume the county could get the work done cheaper. He said he thought it would be legal if the county agreed to buy the property after the improvements had been made.

Under the company's proposal the county would benefit by any savings from having the work done for less than $1,200,000, and would have not pay more than $4,200,000 regardless of how much the company spent.

The Commissioners and Lesher discussed the legal phases of the proposed agreement yesterday with H. W. Nethkin and C. F. C. Arensberg, vice president and special counsel for the company. The engineering phases were discussed with E. L. Schmidt and V. R. Covell, county engineers.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

PEIPING, Dec. 22.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Will Rogers

Vice President Marshall found what America needed—I can tell you what the Orient needs. Don't bring a lot of clothes. You can get anything here—toilet articles, cigarets, shoes, Scotch and all American standard equipment. But for mercy sakes bring a pillow—one with feathers in it—these out here are stuffed with rice which wouldn't be so bad if they had cooked it first. Yours, WILL.

How Contract Bridge Is Played in Pittsburgh

MRS. H. D. STAHL

MRS. I. L. GILLESPIE MISS MARGARET BEECH MRS. E. M. KING MRS. H. J. BAILEY

Feminine foursome, with one "kibitzer," enjoying a contented round of unballyhooed bridge at Pittsburgh's Bridge Club. Mrs. Bailey, founder of club, criticizes the current Lenz-Culbertson bridge "world series" for lack of dignity and presence of ballyhoo.

Culbertson-Lenz Contract War Held 'Ballyhoo'

Mr. Culbertson's and Mr. Lenz's respective ears perhaps are not burning today, but their respective ears probably would be if they could lend an extra one to Mrs. Henry J. Bailey, a founder of the Pittsburgh Bridge Club.

Mrs. Bailey, recognized as one of Pittsburgh's foremost bridge experts, interrupted a session of contract at the club's rooms in William Penn Hotel today to declare:

"The match means nothing. In the first place it is simply ballyhoo. It has no dignity. Mr. Culbertson has the best press agent to be found.

"In the second place, neither system is being tested. If the match were played at duplicate bridge, then we'd be able to decide which is the better system.

"Ossie Jacoby is probably the best player of the four. But Mr. Jacoby and Mr. Lenz had never played together before this match. If they had made preparation for the match I have no doubt they would be far ahead.

"After all, the so-called Culbertson system isn't the Culbertson system at all. It's the Knickerbocker system, played at the Knickerbocker Club. Mr. Culbertson played it, liked it and adopted it."

More Real Santas Needed To Assure Toy Gifts

Real Santas of the Pittsburgh district have arranged to spare hundreds of children their first toyless Christmas, but many more such persons are needed if hundreds of others are to escape this youthful calamity.

Among these many real Santas is a clubwoman, who called the Sun-Telegraph Christmas Editor for the names of children in 10 families, a total of 45 youngsters, whose circumstances their depression-hit parents bravely try to conceal, and therefore they are not among those to whom the Toy Mission and other such organizations minister.

Lists of such children have been provided through Superintendent of Public Schools Ben Graham and his staff, who have investigated each case.

Telephone calls have been continuous to the Christmas Editor, Grant 6500, since the first appeal was issued. Names of the children as well as those asking them are held in confidence and this distribution of toys does not conflict with that of the Toy Mission or other similar organizations.

Readers can obtain the names of children in their neighborhoods—a family with one child or several children—or several families. They may either take the toys or have them delivered. Hundreds of children never toyless on a Christmas before may thus be made happy this year.

MUSIC

'MESSIAH' Mendelssohn Choir

Carnegie Music Hall

Last night the Mendelssohn Choir, with a quartet of eminent soloists and Ernest Lunt directing, gave its annual performance of Handel's Messiah in Carnegie Music Hall.

Mr. Lissfelt

By this performance our Mendelssohn Choir should be known throughout the land for Director Lunt and his singers gave the Handel choruses magnificent readings and the music with its mighty fugues shows to advantage every fine quality of the chorus. Earl Mitchell played organ accompaniments.

Among the soloists, Nelson Eddy was the most impressive, both because of his fine singing and his comprehensive approach to the text. Nevada Van der Veer is a contralto steeped in the traditions of this music and gave her usual performance.

Martha Roberts was for a short time identified with church music in Pittsburgh, and sang her first time with the choir. Her voice is most sympathetic, beautiful in its high register; her style needs repose.

Harold Haugh is a very young tenor who highly dramatizes this music. It is right to do so, but he must make no sacrifice vocally, for Handel's declamation is in the dynamics of the score, well-sung, it is already overflowing with emotion. The quartet individually were most sincere singers.

MOTHER ASKS BOY'S RETURN

The only Christmas present Mrs. Joseph Guyon, of 7220 Hillsdale street, East End, wants, is that her boy return home. Stanley, 18, has been missing from home since December 11. He was attending Westinghouse High School, and was to have graduated in February.

Misfortune Bars Christmas Cheer For Family

EMLENTON, Pa., Dec. 23.—Christmas, to the family of Frank Burrell, will be just another day. Hard luck has followed practically every member.

Burrell is the father of Clifford Burrell, 22, who was injured in an auto accident and lies in Oil City Hospital, the lower part of his body in a cast.

The mother had undergone an operation in Mercy Hospital, Pittsburgh, and was convalescing when her son was hurt. She collapsed and was taken to Oil City Hospital the following day and is in serious condition.

Misfortune continued. While Burrell and son, 16, were shopping, flames destroyed their house. Neighbors have offered father and son temporary lodging.

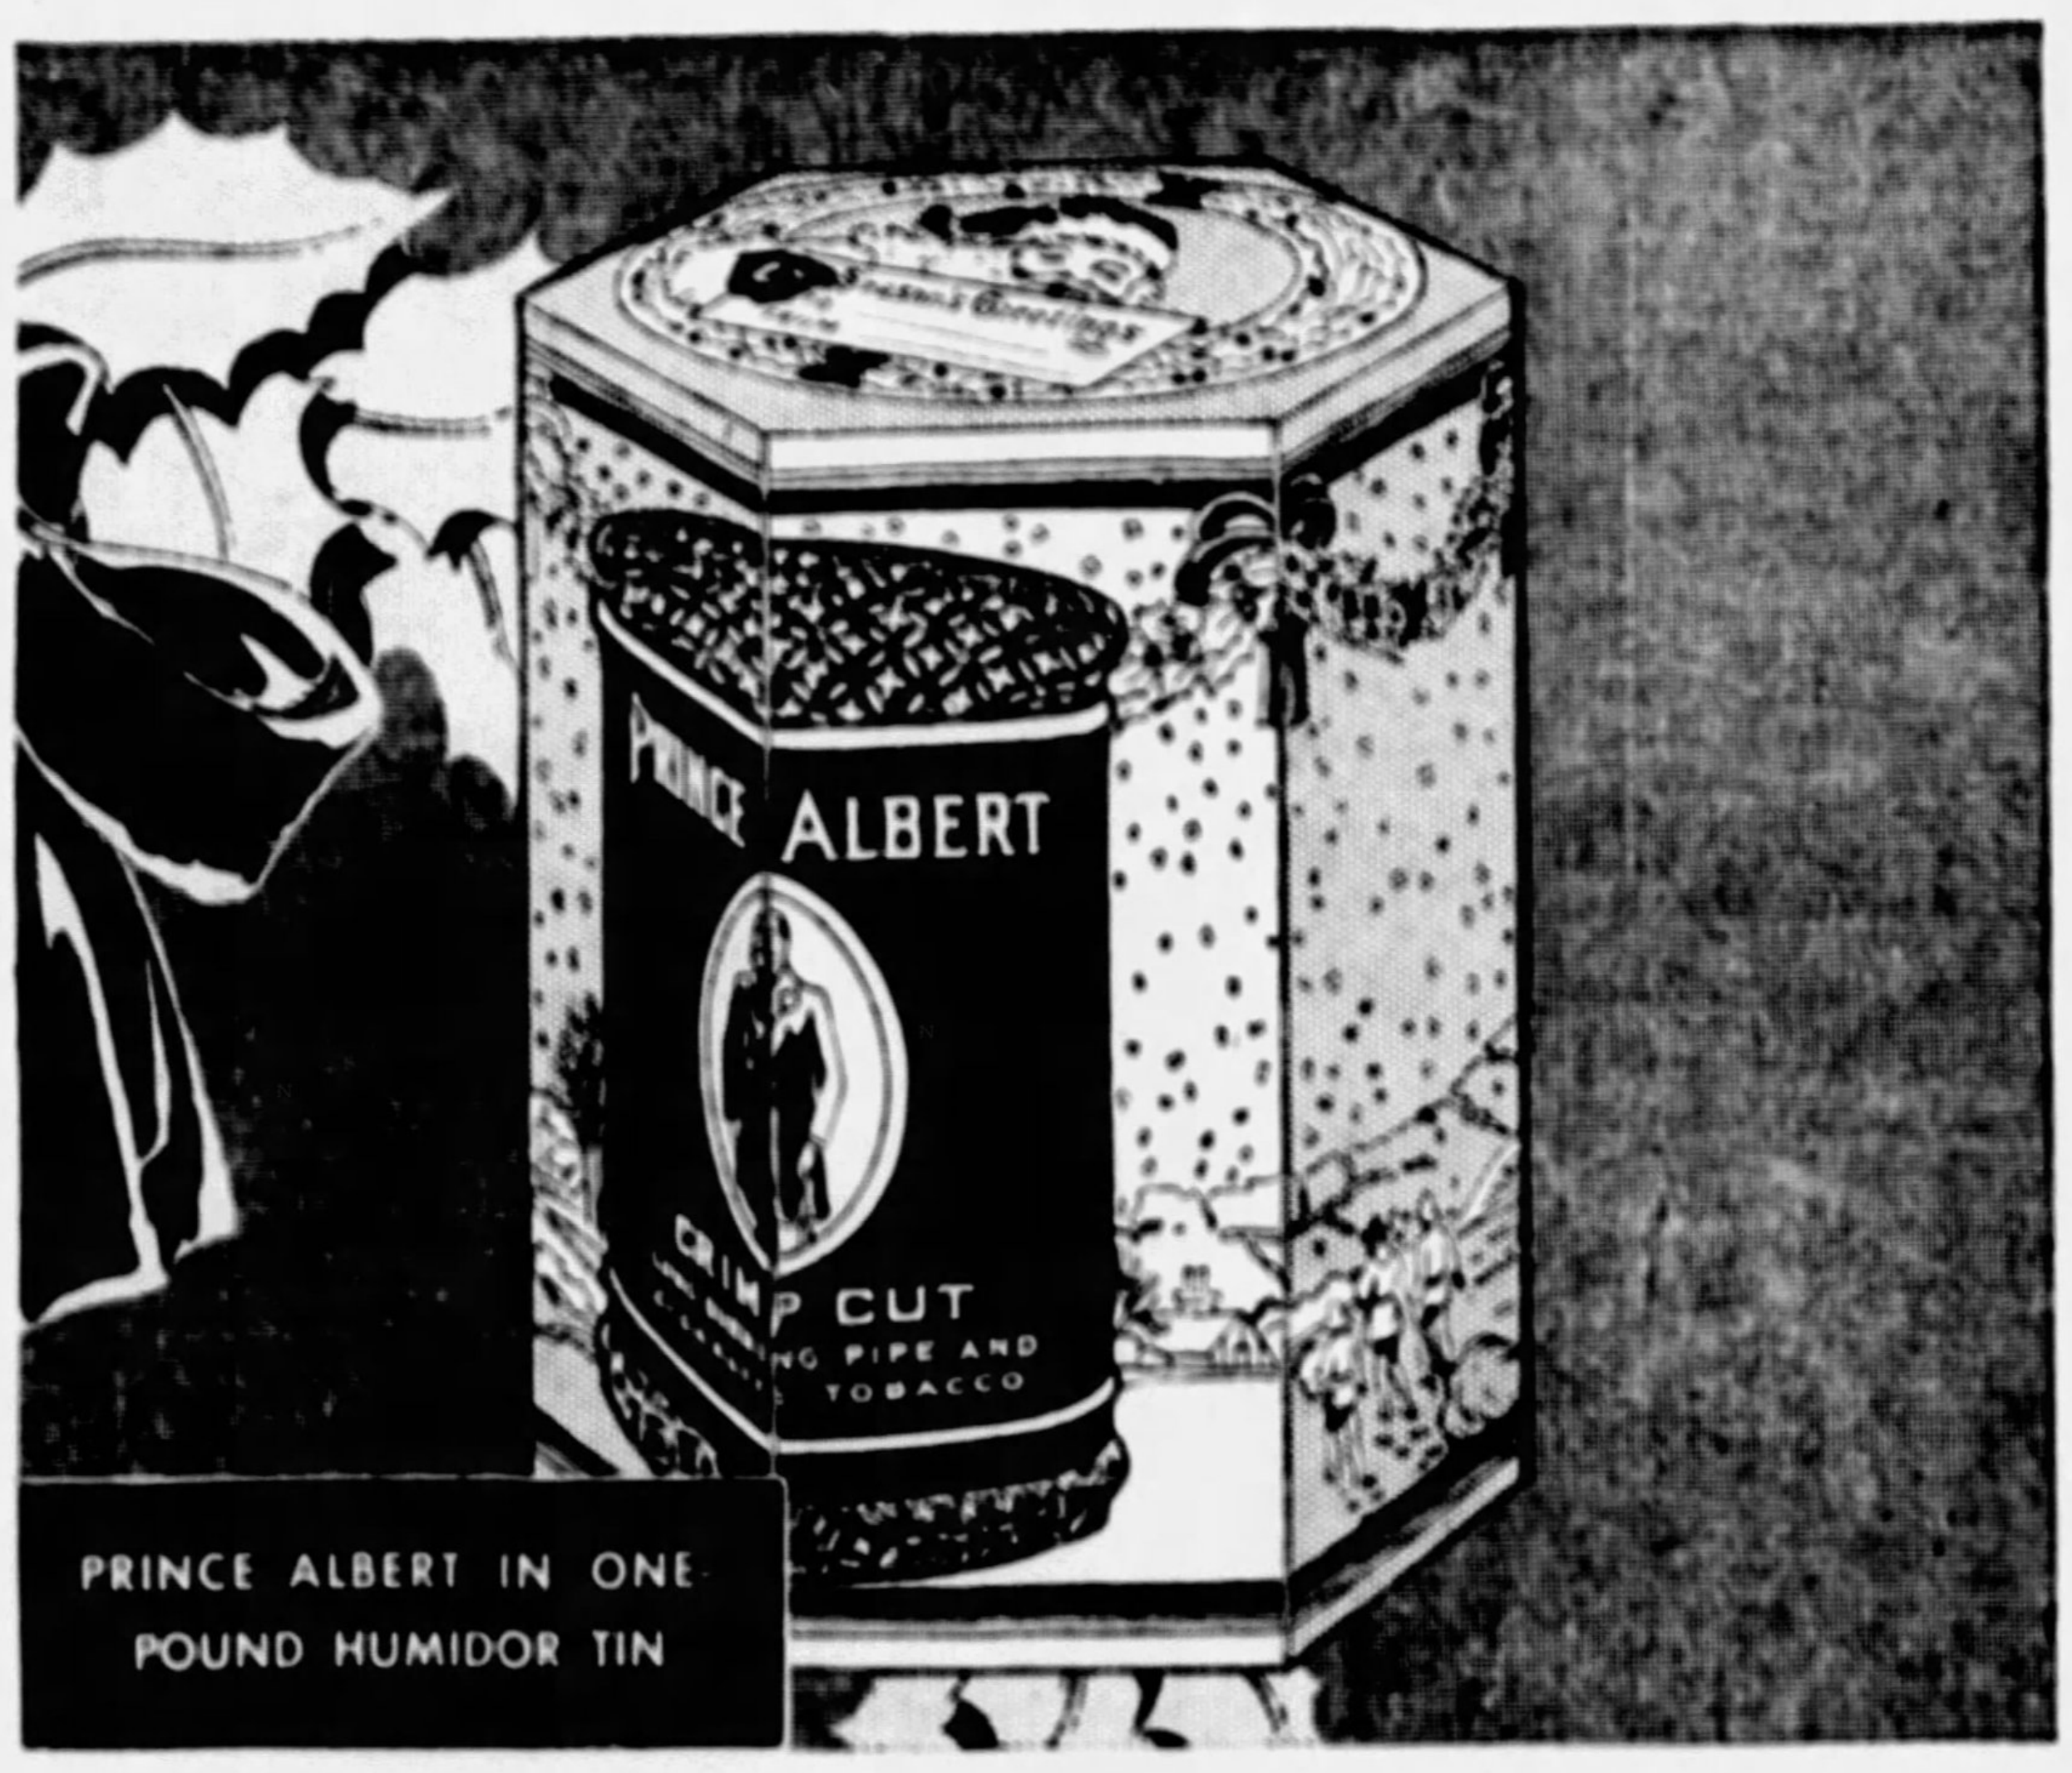
ONE POUND OF PRINCE ALBERT IN CRYSTAL GLASS HUMIDOR



PRINCE ALBERT IN ONE POUND HUMIDOR TIN

CARTON CONTAINING 10 PACKAGES OF 20 CAMELS EACH

CARTON CONTAINING 4 PACKAGES OF 50 CAMELS EACH

IT IS NOT the cost of the gift, but the thought that lies behind the giving that warms the cockles of the heart on Christmas morning.

Then, instead of some short-lived trinket, how much nicer to give something that will bring solace and delight for many days after the Christmas tree is gone; until the New Year is on its way.

For the cigarette smoker, man or woman, of course give Camels. A blend of choice Turkish and mild, sun-ripened Domestic tobaccos, they are kept fresh and prime by the Camel Humidor Pack, with their natural moisture unimpaired by parching or toasting.

In appropriate holiday wrapping, Camels come both in attractive Christmas cartons containing ten packages of twenty and in cartons containing four boxes of fifty each.

For the man who smokes a pipe, we suggest either a pound tin or one of those crystal glass humidors of good old PRINCE ALBERT. Here is a present that goes straight as a Christmas carol to a man's heart; P. A., the best loved pipe tobacco in the world, all dressed for the occasion in bright Christmas costume.

What gift can you think of that will be more welcome or give more genuine pleasure and satisfaction?

Don't you hope someone will think of such a friendly gift for you?

We wish you Merry Christmas!

Thoughts on a Gangster Killing

As I write this piece, I'm riding to Boston on the Knickerbocker Limited. The papers before me are filled with various accounts of the Jack Diamond murder. The train flies along. I see kids playing in the country streets. They seem so happy. Jack Diamond must have started the same as they. What happened? . . . . . .

I wonder about the boyhood of such a man. I wonder if, when he was very small, his father ever took him by the hand and said:

"Come on, kid. You're going out with your old man. We're going to see a ball game together. Always remember that you and your dad are pals. If I buy you a frankfurter, don't tell your mother."

Or I wonder whether his father adopted another attitude. Maybe he pulled him to him and shook a report card in his face. Maybe he said:

"You're bad clean through. Do I have to slave my life away for a young punk who doesn't appreciate anything? If you ever bring home a card like this again I'll slap you so hard that you won't come out of it for a week."

I confess very freely that I don't know anything about it. Perhaps the boy seldom saw his father. I repeat—I'm just wondering . . .

I keep thinking of his first experience with a woman. Was it some little girl of his own age? Some pretty child who sat with him in a soda store, slipped her hand in his and said:

"Gee, Johnny, you're so nice. I like you so much. I'd rather sit here and have a soda with you than be out with anybody else in the world. You're always gonna be a good boy, ain't you, Johnny?"

Or was it some hard-faced dame who called him into her flat, looked at him through wise and chilling eyes, and said:

"You're an okay kid. Mayme likes you, but if you want to stay liked, you gotta help along. Hang around Martin's saloon and Frankie's poolroom, and keep reminding the boys that Mayme is fine company. Here's a buck and a kiss to remember me by. Come around tomorrow."

Just wondering . . .

One of the papers carries a complete record of Jack Diamond's arrests and convictions. Heading the table, I see that he was sent to the New York Reformatory at the age of 19. The charge was burglary.

My mind travels to that reformatory in those days. Was there someone there who was big enough to understand that the young criminal can be saved with half a human chance? Someone like Warden Joseph Wilson, of the Great Meadows Prison, who would have taken the boy aside and said:

"John T. Diamond, why don't you give yourself a break in life? Keep going as you've gone and you'll wind up in a morgue before you know what life is all about. Tell me your thoughts—and I'll do my best to help you. Talk to your friend, boy—what is it?"

Or was there someone in charge whose motto was "once a criminal, always a criminal?" Someone who glanced over a record and said:

"That Diamond crook seems to think he's pretty cute. We'll soon cure him of that. Take a few socks at him and then shove him into solitary. We'll fix him. Who does that little rat think he is?"

Still wondering . . .

* * *

You think I'm attempting to build up sympathy or weave a sob story around Jack Diamond? Not a bit of it. I'm merely thinking out loud, as one collaborator always says to another. As a matter of strict fact, during the last two years of his life, Jack was very much disliked by those who formerly associated with him.

I remember very clearly one important underworld character telling me his impressions of Jack Diamond.

"Mark," he asserted, "Diamond was a good kid in days gone by. By that I mean that he could keep his mouth shut, he could be depended upon to come through in a deal and plenty of the boys liked him.

"But what's happened? Instead of keeping to himself, as any smart guy should, Jack's been willing to be turned into a newspaper bad man. He gets a big kick out of reading the stories the papers print about him, and he think's it's up to him to live up to his reputation. The stories in the papers have done more to make that guy a killer than anything else. And it's all a laugh. Because when he's cold sober and off the stuff, he's like an old lady.

"Meantime, none of us can take a chance on having anything to do with him. He's marked—and so is every guy who gives him a tumble. That's Diamond today."

My own impressions of the man were somewhat similar. Twince in my life, I saw those two red pin points come into Jack Diamond's cheeks—and I am very frank to admit that I left the scene on both occasions just as swiftly as I could. Because I knew that, drunk and angry, there was no more dangerous man in the world. I can tell you now that, on both occasions, I was mighty glad I left when I did.

On the other hand, what would be your opinon of the man's character after considering the following situation:

Some 18 months ago a friend and I were driving through the Fifties when we met Jack and Marion Roberts. Jack told us of a nearby speakeasy that he was operating and insisted that my friend and I have a drink with him. I didn't consider it wise to refuse. With the drinks on the house, my friend proceeded to get pretty well plastered. After an hour or so I told Jack we would have to leave. The mobster looked at my friend and asked if the car belonged to him. I said it did.

"Well," said Jack, "he's not driving. My chauffeur will take him home. Don't argue with me. My chauffeur's taking him home and will put his car away for him. Beat it."

When a man is the cold desperado that Diamond has been pictured, why should he worry about and care for a man whom he has never seen before? Now you wonder . . . .

I once wrote a story about Jack Diamond. Oh, yes. Why should I have been an exception? It appeared around the end of August, 1930—a time when he was suspected of several murders.

"Strange guy, this Diamond," I wrote. "Somehow or other, I find it hard to believe that he is as bad as he is painted. Yet he is a marked man—and I suspect that nobody knows it better than he.

"The authorities have already tried him for murder, and I know the police would feel a lot easier if they could send him to the chair. They might get him some day, but I doubt it very much.

"When Jack Diamond dies, a human hand will move a trigger and not a switch." . . .

Thus, for once, I was right. Not quite 16 months later the hand moved the trigger . . .

* * *

The train still flies along. I see kids playing in the country streets. They seem so happy. Jack Diamond must have started the same way. What happened? . . .

'MYSTERY' TAXI PRISONER FREE

After having been in jail without bail since Saturday night under circumstances described by his family as "mysterious," Fred Knuchel, 36, of 93 South Twenty-fifth street, was free today following an appeal to District Attorney Andrew T. Park.

Relatives said Knuchel, member of the Taxi Drivers' Union and a Yellow Cab driver for 12 years, was arrested by Constable W. R. Kennedy, of Justice of the Peace Ralph Parkhill's office. Kennedy told Mrs. Knuchel her husband was charged with assault and battery and would not be released on bail, she said.

After appealing to Park, Mrs. Knuchel was advised by him her husband would be arraigned immediately. Last night before Parkhill, Knuchel was given a hearing on a charge of arson in connection with the burning of a taxicab and was discharged for lack of evidence.

57 Cases Reported For City Quarantine

The City Department of Health today reported the following new cases in quarantine: Scarlet fever, 8; measles, 16; whooping cough, 4; chickenpox, 12; mumps, 10, and pneumonia, 7.

BANKER SUICIDE AFTER BATTLE

CHICAGO, Dec. 23.—(AP.)—John Jacob Visser, 35, vice president and trust officer of the Kimbell Trust and Savings Bank, was found slain late yesterday in his office on the third floor of the bank building.

The police, reconstructing the circumstances of his death from stories of bank employes and others, said they believed the bank official shot and killed himself after an unsuccessful attempt to kill Antonius Van Worden, 67, a retired businessman who had placed his property in trust and named Visser as his heir.

The police theory was that Van Worden escaped after Visser had beaten him with a piece of gas pipe and shot him in the mouth.

Dreams Shattered, Chinese Kills Self

His dream of a triumphant return to China after seven years' labor made impossible by illness, Ooh Yee, a laundryman, ended his life by firing a bullet into his head last night in the basement of his laundry, 5003 Second avenue.

Homicide detectives found him dead in his bed, one hand clasped about a Chinese prayer book. Near him lay a revolver with one shot fired. He was pronounced dead by nearby physicians.

GATE CRASHERS :-: Many Young Entertainers Break Into Movies :-: AMUSEMENT NOTES

Majority of Recent-Comers To Talkie Screen Are From the Stage

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 23

Even though 1931 will go down in screen history as a triumph for the character actor, many young players have crashed the gates of Hollywood.

Significantly fewer have risen from the ranks of the extras and more have come from the stage.

Peggy Shannon from Pine Bluff, Ark., hastily summoned by Paramount to fill Clara Bow's shoes. Wallace Ford, born Sam Jones, who came to this country from England and was playing in a coast stage production of "Bad Girl" when he attracted the eye of the producers. Karen Morley of Ottumwa, Iowa, who came to the screen from the Pasadena Community Players, [illegible] 21-year-old Theater Guild player.

Rising from the extra ranks: Ruth Hall, Jacksonville, Fla., society girl, is now playing leads at Warners.

The most effortless entree was made by Adrienne Ames, Texas girl and wife of a rich New York broker. En route home from Honolulu she stopped to have pictures taken by Ruth Harriet Louise, Hollywood photographer. When Ruth urged her to take a screen test, she did and Paramount signed her.

LATEST GOSSIP

With the merging of R-K-O and Pathe studios another Hollywood tradition came to an end. The venerable Negro doorman who for five years has stood in front of the Pathe's colonial entrance to the Pathe studio is out of a job. Before him another doorman had served for five years. The custom was originated by the late Thomas H. Ince. Radio officials are amused. They hired a real [illegible] to be technical [illegible] Crazy. He took [illegible] the elaborate sets and [illegible] Arizona. Tallulah Bankhead created a flutter by [illegible] a Paramount preview. When Mike Levee obscured her view she asked him to move over a seat. But of course she didn't know who Mike was. Loretta Young is back from San Francisco. My scouts report she ran around with Howard Hughes up there. . . . Clarke Gable is a lover of poetry. He has promised to read me some of his favorites. Clarke is now working in Marion Davies picture "Polly of the Circus."

Plan Midnight Shows For Academy

There will be a special midnight show in the Academy Christmas eve. The attraction will be "Novelties of 1932," Benny Moore's Columbia burlesque. On New Year's eve Frank X. Silk's "Silk Stocking Revue" will be the midnight attraction and it will be followed at 3 a. m. by a "milkman's matinee."

Ear 'Phones for Deaf In Stanley Theater

Ten ear phones for those who are hard of hearing have been installed in the Stanley and the sets may be used by patrons upon request to the manager of the Stanley or his assistants.

Stage Shows Will Open Friday

The de luxe picture houses are going to say Merry Christmas with stage shows. The musicians and the managers came to an agreement yesterday, and on Christmas Day the Penn, the Stanley, the Enright and the Sheridan Square will augment screen programs with stage presentations. The Harris will have stage shows beginning Saturday.

The feature of the Stanley's stage revue will be a personal appearance of Jean Harlow, the blonde picture actress. Shaw and Lee, comedians, will be on the bill also and Dick Powell will be back on the job of bossing the ceremonies.

Other entertainers coming to the Stanley stage Christmas will be Worthy and Thomas, tap dancers; Bee Hee Rubiatte, European acrobats, and eighteen dancing girls.

"Jade" is the title of the revue coming into the Penn. It will feature Ross and Edwards, comedy song and dance team. Other entertainers will be the Rodion dancers, an Adagio trio; Sanami and Michi, Buddha dancers; the Kitaro Japs, tumblers, and Chester Hale Girls.

R-K-O vaudeville will be presented in the Sheridan Square. Announcement of the entertainers is to be made later.

Chamberlain and Hines, comedians, and Marjorie White, film comedienne, will feature the stage show in the Enright.

The Harris will offer vaudeville including Ora, aerialist; Kit and Barnett, comedians; Howard Smith and Company in a skit, the Clifford Wing Sextet, Indian entertainers, and Saul Brilliant and Company.

Tomorrow evening, Christmas Eve, a caravan of motor coaches will carry dancers, comedians, singers and chorus girls of the Warner organization to various Warner theaters in surrounding communities for appearances at special performances.

Plays, Players and By-Play

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

Mary Boland excels in the depiction of the fluttery type of woman who always can be depended upon to be particularly precise in arranging plans so that they will work out to her own undoing. Hence, she should be especially happy in a sweet, bungling sort of way in "The Vinegar Tree," for that is the kind of a female she portrays in it, we are told. They will light up said tree in the Alvin Christmas night and keep it blazing throughout the following week, when there will be a special holiday matinee on Friday, January 1, as well as the two regular matinees.

* * *

Small Timer, shaking his head doubtfully, says they may be right, these folks who claim the old world is whirling less rapidly, but he has noticed a lot of folks are still dizzy.

* * *

Next week will be made to order for the matinee-goers, with six in our two legitimate theaters, three of which will be in the Nixon, two of them being as per the usual sched, with an extra one on New Year's Day. "The Animal Kingdom" will be having its world premiere, to use a term from the movie dictionary. Authored by Philip Barry and produced by Leslie Howard and Gilbert Miller, it will give Mr. Howard his first stage role since he went around in "Berkeley Square."

* * *

Small Timer says prohibition has been a great help to the woman, as every husband now jumps at the chance to go down in the cellar to get a jar of preserves for his wife.

* * *

Among early attractions booked for the local stage are "Girl Crazy," musical comedy, in the Alvin January 4, and "Mourning Becomes Electra," the Eugene O'Neill trilogy, in the Nixon January 18, with Judith Anderson, Florence Reed, Crane Wilbur and our own Thurston Hall. February 15 Fred Stone's new musical show will be seen in the Alvin.

* * *

Small Timer says likker improves with age but the opposite is true of prohibition.

* * *

A Christmas card from Ed Vail, former capable director and character actor of the George Sharp Players, discloses that he is with the stock company in the Granada, Toledo, where Paula (nee Pauline) McLean is the leading dame. After a week of no openings, New York this week will greet "Cold In Sables," with Taylor Holmes; "It Never Rains," revival; "Tom Sawyer," revival; "Sentinels," by Lulu Vollmer, who wrote "Sun-Up;" "Fata Morgana," revival; "Sugar Hill," negro show with Miller & Lyles; "Of Thee I Sing," musical comedy with Victor Moore, William Gaxton and our own Lois Moran; "The Bride the Sun Shines On," with Dorothy Gish. Pauline Frederick is beginning rehearsals of a stage play, "When the Bough Breaks," which is no relation of "The Cradle Song" and "Lullaby."

Travels of Roettger.
May Be Traded Again.
Will Levinsky Accept?
Japs Weak on Attack.
Miller Rivals Barry.
Pitt's Star Freshies.

SHIFTED FOUR TIMES IN TWO YEARS

WHILE THE FREQUENT shifts made in big league baseball circles by Burleigh Grimes, Sam Jones and others are being discussed, Outfielder Walter Roettger is not to be overlooked as one who has done quite a bit of globe-trotting. In a major league career that dates back only to 1927, Roettger has traveled more than the average player. During the last two years in particular, he has been kept on the go, the latest deal in which the Cardinals sold him back to the Reds making a total of no fewer than four in which he has figured in 20 months.

Walter Roettger

In April of 1930, the Cards swapped Roettger to the Giants for Outfielder George Fisher and Infielder Eddie Farrell. In October, of the same year, the Giants sold Wally to the Reds, along with Outfielder Ray Fitzgerald. Last June Roettger returned to the Cards with a roll of currency in exchange for Outfielder Taylor Douthit, and now, for a cash consideration, he goes back to Cincinnati, the second National League club with which he has had two engagements.

AND EVEN NOW there may be no lengthy interruption to Roettger's travels, as there is a prospect that he will move on again at once. Brooklyn wants an outfielder who hits right-handed, and things may work out in such a way as to land Wally in the Dodger camp for next year.

Max Carey is not yet convinced that the Cards are going to keep Hack Wilson. Like other baseball men he can't picture the St. Louis club retaining a player of Wilson's standing just to use him instead of Roettger to alternate with George Watkins in right field. So Carey may make another attempt to get Wilson, and if he fails there he will turn again to Cincinnati.

MAX HAD SOME earlier negotiations with the Reds for a right-hand hitting outfielder. He wanted Douthit, but Dan Howley declined to part with Taylor for the reason that he would have been left shorthanded himself on flychasers of that type.

But now, with Roettger added to the Cincinnati forces, conditions will be different. Carey is expected to make another attempt to get Douthit, and if that fails it is understood that he will be willing to talk trade for Roettger. So it is within the bounds of possibility that Wally may shortly be moved along again.

BOXING PROMOTERS IN New York appear to be taking a whole lot for granted when they announce plans for staging a return match between Tommy Loughran and King Levinsky in January merely on the strength of having obtained Loughran's signature to a new set of articles. The obstacle will be the obtaining of the signature of Levinsky. Naturally Loughran would sign again in a hurry for another bout, as it means a chance to re-establish himself, but Levinsky will have everything to lose and nothing to gain and may not be found eager to take the risk. He'll have to feel pretty thoroughly convinced that Loughran is really done and was not merely suffering from a temporary off-spell. Otherwise he's not likely to run the chance of losing the prestige he gained last week before he has capitalized on it.

Lou Gehrig

THAT THE JAPANESE have all the enthusiasm in the world for baseball, but that the players are weak in hitting and baserunning and not serious enough in their work during a game, is the report brought back from Japan by Lou Gehrig, of the major league tourists.

"The Japanese lack the fundamentals of the game," says the Yankee first sacker. "They practice fielding continuously and are pretty good in that department, but they're weak at bat and on the bases. Instead of getting down to work on batting and other items of attack, they want to be trying tricks in the field all the time.

"THEIR PARKS ARE huge—450 feet to the fence. We had crowds of 50,000 to 60,000 at many of the games. All the seats would be filled by 10 o'clock in the morning, four and a half hours before game time. Half of the spectators must have come on bicycles. I never saw so many bikes before. No automobiles, though. They have parking yards for bikes.

"The players are not serious enough. They laugh all the time. One of them struck out with the bases full and almost laughed his head off. We picked a runner off first base one day, and he just lay on the ground and laughed as if it were a great joke."

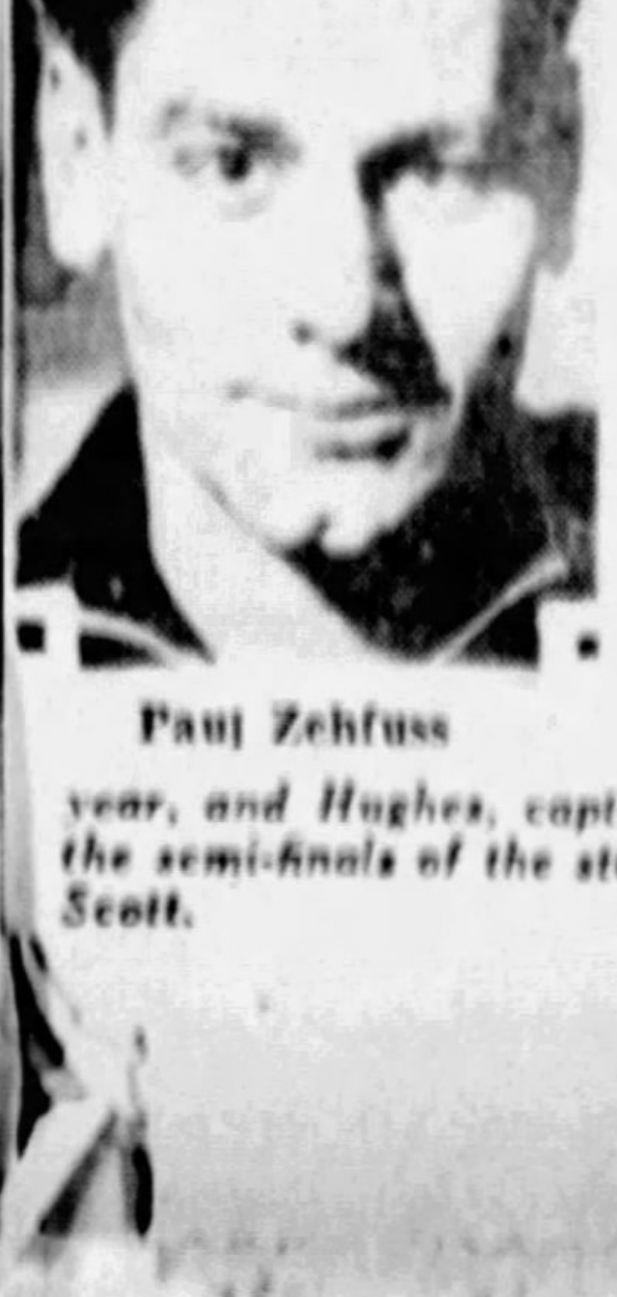
PETE BARRY, veteran ace of the Rosenblum-Celtics, has a rival in Ralph Miller, of the Chicago Bruins, for durability honors in basketball. Alex Zirin recalls that Miller has been playing the floor game since he was 15, and that was 20 years ago. Ralph has been with a number of big pro teams, including Fort Wayne, which five he left last season when given a chance to become manager of the Bruins. He has also had a long career in baseball, and Pittsburgh fans will recall him as having played here with the Phillies. He was with the Senators in the world series against the Giants in 1924, and has also played for San Francisco, Indianapolis, Columbus, Milwaukee, Louisville, Reading, Chattanooga, Quincy and Fort Wayne.

THOUGH TOMMY THEVENOW, Pirate shortstop, has been rated the most unfortunate player in baseball as the victim of numerous injuries requiring operations or hospital treatment, his record is being threatened by Del Bissonette, first baseman of the Brooklyn Dodgers.

The operation from which Bissonette is now recovering in a Brooklyn hospital was his ninth in two years. The first eight were delicate ones, involving the removal of some slivers of bone near the brain, a condition resulting from being struck on the head by one of Lester Sweetland's pitches. The latest was to remedy a defective throwing arm, due to an injury suffered when Del was a pitcher at Georgetown.

DESPITE THE LOSS to Taylor Allderdice High School in the second game of the season, the Pitt Freshman basketball team looks to be the strongest since Charley Hyatt started back in 1926-27. Seldom have so many famous high school players, all from the immediate district, been enrolled on one first-year Panther team.

In fact the material is so plentiful that Coach Paul Zehfuss, once a star himself and now a sophomore in the School of Medicine, doesn't know what to do with it all. It has been practically impossible for him to select a starting combination without leaving a couple of real stars on the bench.



Paul Zehfuss

INCLUDED ON THE yearling roster are such clever passers as Wilson, of New Kensington; Kuno, of Scott; Wainio, of New Castle; Hughes, of Hollidaysburg; Eicher, of Scottdale; Brooks, of Greensburg; Kribbs, of Jeannette; Regan, of South Hills, and Ames, of New Kensington. Wainio was graduated from New Castle High before that school's team appeared in the W. P. I. A. L. tournament at the Stadium, and the teams of three other players—Regan, Kribbs and Brooks—did not advance that far. Kuno, however, was a regular on the state championship five boosted by Scott last year, and Hughes, captain of Hollidaysburg, saw his team go to the semi-finals of the state tournament before being eliminated by Scott.

GAMES TONIGHT

Yale at Carnegie Tech.
McDonald High at Carnegie Plebes.
Pitt at Kansas U.
Geneva at Youngstown Y.

By JESS CARVER

In as tasty a pre-Christmas basketball dish as has been served hereabouts for as many fingers as you have on two hands, Carnegie Tech and Yale present their varsity quintets in the Tartan gym tonight, meeting in the city's second intercollegiate contest of the season.

Two weeks ago, another Eastern institution, Temple U., sent its Owls here to play Pitt. The Owls were defeated and the Panthers got off on the right paw, or paws, but haven't fared so well since. Carnegie, with three intercollegiate and two warm-up tussles under their belts, have designs on the barbisons of the Eli tonight.

YALE FORMIDABLE

Yale, engaged in a holiday tour of what, at New Haven, are jokingly referred to as the provinces, hasn't been doing any too well. Western Reserve clipped them the other evening and Monday night the Yales were pressed to the limit to capture a 24-23 decision over Toledo University. Last night, Ohio State tripped the Eli tossers, 33 to 20.

Carnegie's record to date is nothing over which to screech. The boys got off to a good start against Kentucky Wesleyan, but were taken by Kentucky U. and St. Xavier in successive nights. There is power, potential power, encased in the sturdy limbs and sinews of the Skibo players, however, and once Coach Hogan has his machine clicking, the Schenley Parkers figure to be a tough team to stop.

Tonight, Coach Hogan plans to start two sophomores for the opening tap-off. Lou Jagnow and Bob Smith will pair off at the forwards. Eddie Stentz is to go at center and the clever Raudabaugh and steady Red Fergus at the guards. Capt. Jimmy Leonard, who fits in either at a forward or a guard, will roost on the bench alongside his coach, primed for instantaneous replacement duty.

LINEUP UNCERTAIN

The Eli lineup is tougher to figure. If the same lineup that played against Toledo is used, Saner and Howe will perform as forwards, O'Connell at center and Reese and Nikkel at the guards.

The very capable Cal Bolster and Yans Wallace will officiate, which assures a well-handled ball game.

BUCKEYES TRIP YALE

COLUMBUS, Dec. 23.—(AP.)—Bobby Colburn, of Dayton, playing his first collegiate game, led Ohio State University's Big Ten basketball team to a 33-20 victory over Yale here last night. The score at half time was 9 to 5 in favor of Ohio State. The lineup:

Second Round Draw Made by N. B. A.

CHICAGO, Dec. 23.—(AP.)—The drawing for second round bouts in the National Boxing Association's light-heavyweight elimination tournament has done Billy Jones, Philadelphia Negro, and Larry Johnson, Chicago Negro, no favors.

Both were pre-tournament favorites to go a long way toward succeeding to the throne until recently held by Maxie Rosenbloom, but the draw for December 30, will bring them together. Baxter Calmes, Wichita, Kan., and Roscoe Manning, Newark, N. J., Negro, and Bob Olin, New York, and Clyde Chastain, of Texas, will meet in the other pair of second-round bouts.

Sun-Tele Sports Quiz on Air Tonight

Harry Keck, sports editor, will be master of ceremonies, and other members of the staff who will be heard include Carl Shatto, Tom Birks, Jess Carver and Julius Levin.

EXPLANATION OF RIPLEY'S CARTOON OF YESTERDAY: THE CATTLE WHIP TREE—In the spring of 1837, a drove of cattle belonging to Daniel Drews, later a partner of Jay Gould, was driven down from Duchess County and pastured on a farm at Mead Corners, in the town of Kent, N. Y. Adams, the herder, who then was 10 years old, stuck his cattle goad into the damp ground and left it there until the next year, when, to his astonishment, he noticed it had taken root and was growing. For 80 years Adams visited his "goad tree" every year, and it was during his last visit that he related its history to Leo I. Redding, of New York. The tree—a Balm of Gilead—now stands in a small triangular park on the Cold Spring road, New York.

BRONX COLLEGE GETS FORMER N. Y. U. COACH

NEW YORK, Dec. 23.—(AP.)—John F. (Chick) Meehan, who recently resigned as head coach of football at New York University, today was appointed director of physical education and head football coach at Manhattan College, a Jesuit institution in the upper Bronx.

Meehan succeeds John Law, Notre Dame captain in 1929, who announced recently, to the surprise of Manhattan, that he was not returning as coach. He had been there two years. His contract expired with the end of this season.

PREFERS SMALL SCHOOL

Meehan resigned at New York University after the student newspaper had called for his resignation because he was a proponent, the paper said, of "big time football — subsidization of athletes, lavish entertainment of prospects and big gate receipts."

At that time Meehan said he was sick of "big time" football himself and that if he returned to coaching it would be at some small school, where he could work and play with the boys, hold pep rallies and have a good time.

Chick was not immediately available today, being out on a construction job of the firm of which he is vice president, but his office said they felt sure the announcement, made by Manhattan, met with his full approval.

Chick had been coach at N. Y. U. for seven years, coming to the Violets from Syracuse University, where he played quarterback and later was coach.

MADE VIOLETS WINNERS

In a short time he lifted N. Y. U. football out of the small college class to where it was on a par with the best in the country. For the last three or four years his teams have been rated among the strongest in the East, with several All-America players.

Manhattan is a relatively small school, with about 1,000 students. It has never been noted for its football teams, although under Law it achieved considerable success, defeating Oglethorpe University this year in its only intersectional game.

New York University, committed to a policy of less emphasis on football, has not yet announced Meehan's successor.

BOXERS FINISH GRIND TODAY

TONIGHT'S FIGHTS

Community benefit amateur bouts, Croatian Hall, Ambridge.
Tut Jackson vs. Joe Downey (exhibition), 6 rounds, Red Cross benefit show, Washington Court House, O.
Babe Ruth vs. Bud Clarke, 10 rounds, Vincennes, Ind.

The boxers on the Christmas afternoon card at Motor Square Garden will engage in their final hard workouts this afternoon and will merely taper off tomorrow.

Ted Yaross, of Monaca, and Jimmy Belmont, of Braddock, who meet in the 10-round windup, culminating a long rivalry, both report themselves in fine condition. Their clash is a "natural," and is expected to draw a large turnout of fans.

Billy Flanagan boxes Tiger Joe West in the eight-round semi-final. Anson Green and Allen Beatty are in the second bout and Al Iovino and Johnny Warner box the opener, which will get under way at 2:30.

CONNIE MACK 69 TODAY

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 23.—Connie Mack gazed out today on his seventieth year, the biblical three score and ten, with all the eagerness of a man half his age.

Today he is 69 years old, but he can scarcely believe that as he goes about moulding the Philadelphia Athletics into a ball club that can win the American League pennant for the fourth straight year.

"Birthdays come faster now," he said with a smile. "Perhaps they're making the years shorter. But I feel no different than I did ever so long ago. Perhaps I haven't the endurance I once had, but otherwise my health is splendid."

He does not look like the oldest man actively engaged in major league baseball, a veteran of playing days that began in Meriden, Conn., in 1884, 47 years ago.

Farley to Remain As Head of Comish

NEW YORK, Dec. 23.—(INS.)—James A. Farley positively will not resign as chairman of the New York State Athletic Commission.

This statement is based upon authority that can be regarded most officially official.

It long has been an idea that Farley would quit as boss of boxing and wrestling in the Empire State about January 1 so that he might be free to manage the affairs of Gov. Franklin Roosevelt, provided someone tosses the latter's hat into the presidential ring of 1932.

But Farley will continue with the commission regardless of what may transpire in his political life.

ESTIN RACE VICTOR

NEW YORK, Dec. 23.—(AP.)—W. H. Perry's 5-year-old gelding, Estin, turned in a remarkable effort to win the Marche Militaire Purse at Jefferson Park, New Orleans yesterday.

Dartmouth Ice Team to Play On Coast

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 23.—(AP.)—Dartmouth's ice hockey squad will invade the Pacific Coast for a game with the University of California at Los Angeles, probably the first week of March, athletic heads of the local university have announced.

VANGS TO PLAY ALUMNI TEAM

The former Shady Side Academy polo team will make its first appearance of the indoor city league season when it plays the Vangs in a six-chukker match Saturday night at Hunt Armory, East End. Bliss Flaccus, home from Princeton, and King McCreery, F. and M. student home for the holidays, will ride for Shady Side, along with David I. McCahill, Jr. Art Aron, Shady Side student, will be a substitute.

George Vang, Vose Babcock and Howard Adams will make up the Vang team, with Paul Mazuzun as substitute. The game is to be called at 8:30 o'clock. The lineup:

Shady Side		Vangs
Flaccus	1	Vang
McCahill	2	Babcock
McCreery	3	Adams

Substitutes—Shady Side, Aron. Vangs—Mazuzun. Referee—Col. George Cherrington.

Boxer Dies Two Hours After K. O.

RAYMOND, Wash., Dec. 23.—(AP.)—Hugh Bigelow, about 40, struck the back of his head on a plank floor when knocked out by a blow to the chin in a boxing match here Monday night. He died two hours later. His opponent, Blackie Stevens, was not held.

COON TRIAL SLATED

A New Year Day feature will be a coon and fox trial, an annual event, to be staged at Bakerstown, Pa. The first trial will begin at 12:30 p. m.

PANTHERS LOSE AGAIN, 26-20

By H. C. Carlson

PITT BASKETBALL COACH

Written Exclusively for the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 23.—Tonight we engage the Kansas University quintet in the final game of our three-tussle series. Last night the Panthers lost their second game in as many nights to the local tossers, the outcome being 26 to 20. That makes four defeats in five games of our Western jaunt, but the Panthers are undaunted, and hope to come through with a triumph in tonight's fracas.

Dr. H. C. Carlson

In 1928, I almost wished at times that we might have the unusual sensation of losing a game, so that we could demonstrate that we could lose gracefully. Now I would like to win gracefully.

Most of the fans and the local papers have a sneaking suspicion that Pitt is a better, though smaller, team than Kansas, but the score at the end of the first two games here indicated otherwise.

PITT SPIRIT HIGH

The Pitt boys are wonderful in keeping up their spiritual side, but their physical reserves are low, and the larger opposition wear them down usually in the last few minutes, and that is part of the game.

Gloom is so thick it can be brushed aside with your hands, but if basketball is truly representative of the game of life, with its measures of joys and sorrows, then we must be ready to adopt ourselves to each.

Lots of people are worn down by sickness, death, and financial worries, and a game is only slight compared to them. Some day our sun will surely rise and our forgetters will work well.

PLAYERS MAKE SACRIFICES

I realized the hazards of this trip, the extra sacrifices required, but the boys wanted to see California, and even in our defeat Pitt and the Pittsburgh district loses little. As for the boys, the trip continues to edify geographically, as well as in the finer arts, from new chin holds in dancing, through proper technique in felicitating brides and grooms. Our hearts are low, but our heads are up. The lineup:

Pittsburgh	Fg. F. Pt.	Kansas	Fg. F. Pt.

Fight Results

At Indianapolis—Tracy Cox knocked out Jimmy Watts, 4 rounds. Andy Kelley knocked out Harold Anderson, 2 rounds.

At Anderson, Ind.—Otto Anderson and Johnny Fagg drew, 10 rounds. Glen Nix won on foul from Gene Lewis, 6 rounds.

At Portland, Ore.—Leo Lomski knocked out Denny Leahan, 3 rounds. Ernie Peters knocked out Billy Ryan, 1 round. Ray McQuillan defeated Paul Delaney, 6 rounds. Teddy Fox won by technical knockout over Ado Cadena, 5 rounds.

At New York—Panta Villa defeated Tom Jones, 6 rounds. Peter Ruffalo defeated Joe Abrams, 6 rounds.

Rox Rangers Get Two Grid Trophies

The players of the Rox Rangers football team, winner of the lightweight grid conference championship, were honored at a testimonial held in the Roxian Theater, McKees Rocks, last night, during which they were presented two trophies symbolic of their triumph. The first was the conference award, and the second donated by the theater in which the affair was staged. Among the speakers was Jess Carver, of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph sports staff.

BUCS TRAINER SIGNED

Dr. Charles A. Jorgenson, trainer of the Pittsburgh Pirates, has accepted terms to remain another year with the Corsairs.

Between Rounds

Three mitt shows are carded in Philadelphia Christmas Day. Benny Schwartz boxes [illegible] in the windup of an afternoon show at the Cambria Club, while in the evening Benny Bass and [illegible] are the headliners at the Arena and [illegible] boxes [illegible] at the Broadway Club.

Promoter [illegible] has arranged an attractive card for his show for the needy in Croatian Hall, Ambridge, tonight, including boxing, wrestling and vaudeville entertainment on the bill. [illegible] Tiger Joe West, [illegible] and Jack O'Brien are among the professional boxers who will contribute their services in exhibitions.

Midget Mike O'Dowd and Santiago Zorilla have been matched to box the main bout of a New Year's Day show in Wheeling.

The Pittsburgh district may have a third new indoor boxing arena shortly after the holidays, if [illegible]. A plan is under way to convert a large garage in Braddock into a boxing club. First announcement was made in these columns yesterday of the plans of [illegible] to open a club in Pittsburgh and of the Homestead A. C. to operate in the Homestead Turner Hall. Since the failure of the Mosque Temple to reopen, Motor Square Garden has had the local field to itself aside from what little opposition it has received from McKeesport.

The next show in McKeesport will be staged on the night of Thursday, January 7.

Tony Marino showed a lot of class in beating Johnny Edwards, a ranking flyweight, in his first 10-round bout, in Wheeling, Monday night, and the victory should get him some good offers.

Tommy Crawley and Phil Goldstein, two lightweights, who think there is nothing finer than to fight each other, will meet again, but this time in an exhibition bout. They are on the program of bouts sponsored by St. John's Church, South Side, next Wednesday night. Eight amateur bouts also are slated.

KISH TOPS SCHOELLER

William Kish turned in a 50-to-45 victory over Bud Schoeller, in the Greater Pittsburgh Billiard League, at the Tonic parlors, last night. John Barnard opposes William Eichenmiller tonight.

THREE WORLD SWIM MARKS FALL

N.Y.A.C. CRACKS MICHIGAN'S RECORD

NEW YORK, Dec. 23.—Three world swimming records were broken when the New York Athletic Club team interrupted the three-year winning streak of the University of Michigan in a dual meet last night in the New Yorkers' pool. N. Y. A. C. swimmers won 46 to 26 and accounted for all three new marks.

The New York 200-yard free-style relay team of John Howland, former Yale swimming captain; George Fissler, Walter Spence of Rutgers University, and George Kojac, former Rutgers swimming leader, won the event in 1 minute and 34 4-5 seconds, breaking the mark set by Yale in 1928 by two-fifths of a second.

Leonard Spence of Rutgers Prep, swimming under N. Y. A. C. colors, broke the world mark in the 200-yard breaststroke. He was timed in 2 minutes and 25 4-5 seconds, bettering the mark of 2:31 2-5 set by John Schmieler of Michigan last March.

The N. Y. A. C. 300-yard medley relay team set the third new record. The team, composed of Johnny Howland, backstroke; Leonard Spence, breaststroke, and John Howland, free-style, was clocked in 3 minutes and 3 3-5 seconds, breaking the mark made by the Lake Shore Athletic Club of Chicago in the national championships last April when that team was timed in 3:05 3-5.

PITT CHESSMEN IN TITLE EVENT

For the first time in recent years a chess team will be sent to represent Pitt at the Intercollegiate Chess League tournament to be held in New York December 28-31 in the clubrooms of the Marshall Chess Club.

Six other colleges, Columbia, New York University, C. C. N. Y., Brooklyn College, University of Pennsylvania and Brown, also have entered teams. Frank J. Marshall, one of America's foremost chess masters, will be the referee.

The matches will be played with time clocks, allowing each player an hour to make a minimum of 20 moves.

The Pitt team will include Milton Paul, '33; Roger Isley, '35; Thomas Carroll, '32, and Bradford Isley, '34. It has had only one match this year, in which West Point was defeated 4-2. Columbia won last year.

The members of the winning team will be given medals donated by H. M. Phillips, president of the Intercollegiate Chess League. Herman Helms is managing the tournament. Pitt leaves for New York Saturday.

Casey Stengel Gets Release From Toledo

TOLEDO, Dec. 23.—(AP)—Charles D. (Casey) Stengel, former manager of the Toledo Mudhens, of the American Association, was made a free agent when Judge James Martin signed an order granting Receiver Al Reuben permission to release Stengel from the reserve list of the Toledo Baseball Club.

The action gives Stengel permission to accept major league scout and coaching offers he has received. Stengel's contract with the Mudhens expired at the end of the season, but the court action was taken because of the receivership for the club.

Merry Christmas, OFFICER!

WILL he smile when you drive up, beckon him over and hand him a box of Marsh? We'll say so. Because he sees hundreds of prominent men—big guns, he calls them—drive past each day puffing Marsh Stogies. That proves to him they're good.

And the New Christmas Packages of 25 and 50 stogies surely make them look the part.

SPORT VIGNETTES

Some idea of how rapidly time flies may be gained from the picture of the young football player appearing below . . . He is Jess Willard, Jr., son of the former heavyweight champion . . . Young Jess is 17 years old, and during the football season recently closed was the regular right guard of the Glendale (Cal.) team and is headed for a college eleven . . . It seems only a few years ago since Willard outgalloped the White Hope brigade to win the championship from Jack Johnson at Havana, Cuba . . . That was in 1915, when young Jess was a babe in arms . . . Now he is a husky young fellow in football togs . . . Tempus certainly fugits!

Few persons find fault with the policy of colleges in granting scholarships to football players and other athletes in return for the time and effort these youngsters give aside from their studies . . . The hypocrisy of denying that such conditions exist is what causes the rub . . . Many a worthy lad has won his way through college by giving his all for Alma Mater on the football field, baseball diamond or basketball court or as a member of the crew, and what harm has come of it? . . . With the huge gate receipts piling in, no one is more entitled to his share than the athlete who makes them possible . . . This is not a brief for the situation as it exists, but a plea for recognition of the conditions and a frank acknowledgement of them . . . It is far worse to teach hypocrisy and cheating to the young college boys than to honestly and openly condone a state of affairs that seemingly has grown out of the control of the faculties.

New York's Madison Square [illegible] championship [illegible] to the winner . . . Meanwhile the recent [illegible] elimination staged by the N. B. A. and won by Gorilla Jones meant little if anything . . . Shortly we shall have two championship claimants, with each having as good a claim as the other . . . Knute Rockne, Sir Tom Lipton, Gabby Herrmann, Charley Comiskey, Ban Johnson and Ernest Barnard were lost to the [illegible] by death during the year [illegible] . . . Pittsburgh lost Bill Dinneen [illegible] . . .

Basketball fans will notice a change in the box score style being used by the Pittsburgh newspapers this season . . . It is a simplified form popular in other sections and was adopted because it tells the story of the game at a glance, with the individual scoring records easier to read, and consumes less space than the others . . . We hope you'll like it . . . It must have been quite a thrill for Harry (Sunny) Guest, East Pittsburgh star, when he rolled his first 300 game in tenpins during a team match on the Votel alleys in East Pittsburgh the other night . . . Guest has been rolling for 18 years and has won the all-events championship of the annual Tri-state tournament three times, but this was his first perfect game.—HARRY KECK.

LAWYER FLAYS GIANT LEADERS

NEW YORK, Dec. 23.—(AP)—The men who control the New York Giants National League Baseball Club were described in court yesterday by Isaac Jacobson as "all drinking men, all cursing men, all fighting men, all of an ilk."

Jacobson is attorney for former Magistrate Francis X. McQuade, who brought suit for reinstatement as Giants' treasurer against Charles A. Stoneham, president, and John J. McGraw, manager of the club. Arguments of counsel were concluded and Supreme Court Justice Philip J. McCook reserved decision.

Jacobson charged the defendants with "distoring actual occurrences to fit their case," and said this was "particularly true" of the various charges leveled at McQuade.

"None of the men involved was an angel," exclaimed Jacobson. "They were all drinking men, all cursing men, all fighting men, all of an ilk. It is common knowledge that the management of the New York National League Club was in the hands of a rough element. To hear the defendants talk you would think McQuade was the cause of all the trouble the club ever had."

The western squad was augmented by the arrival of eight players named by Dana X. Bible, University of Nebraska coach, who will help prepare the West for the [illegible]

MAXIE SIGNS FOR BOUT

By COPELAND C. BURG
International News Service.

NEW YORK, Dec. 23.—Max Schmeling signed the pledge today.

The big German boxer, through his manager, Joe Jacobs, promised to defend his world heavyweight title in March in Chicago against Mickey Walker, providing the Illinois legislature bumps the limit on bouts in that state from 10 to 15 rounds.

And on top of the Schmeling-Walker match for Chicago, Santa Claus came prancing over the skyscrapers today with other choice fistic bon bons. But nary a one for New York and the East. The West got them all.

For Jacobs said that after the Walker bout, Schmeling would meet either Jack Dempsey or Jack Sharkey, the platinum blond the New York Boxing Commission is so crazy about, in a Chicago tilt next summer. And another present for the West was a reported Dempsey-Primo Carnera fight to be staged in Reno next May.

Nate Lewis, matchmaker for the Chicago Stadium, who extracted from Jacobs the pledge to bring Schmeling to Chicago to box Walker, was expected to announce further details of the clash after a conference today. According to Lewis, Schmeling was committed to the Chicago bout providing the Legislature amended the law by January 25, Jacobs signing a written agreement to that effect.

CHICAGO URGES CHANGE

CHICAGO, Dec. 23.—(INS)—The Chicago City Council today joined the campaign to bring the next heavyweight championship fight to this city. In a resolution, forwarded to the state Legislature at Springfield, the Council urged that body to adopt the boxing law amendment which would permit 15-round battles in Illinois instead of the present statutory 10 rounds.

Friedman Calls Booth Overrated

NEW YORK, Dec. 23.—(AP)—Benny Friedman, former All-America quarterback at Michigan and backfield coach at Yale last fall, believes Albie Booth, the Blue midget, was an overrated football player.

The Daily News, student publication at New York University, quotes Friedman as saying:

"The newspapers made Booth an outstanding star, when as a matter of fact Albie is highly overrated."

Friedman cited the Booth case as one of overemphasis in football and added that although he regarded de-emphasis as an "ideal undertaking," total de-emphasis "is practically an impossibility."

Wrestling Match Ends With Riot

CLEVELAND, Dec. 23.—(AP)—Chief War Eagle and Young Gotch, five policemen, Referee Lynch and several hundred spectators fought to a draw in a wrestling match last night, originally billing the Chief and Young Gotch.

War Eagle, tossed out of the ring last week because of roughness, became incensed when the referee wouldn't let him crawl out of the ring to put a few finishing touches to Young Gotch. It took the policemen to quell the Gotch-Lynch sympathizers when the going got rough.

Pan Pete to Pay Dividend—Stewart

NEW YORK, Dec. 23.—R. G. Stewart, president of Pan-American Petroleum and Transport Company, subsidiary of Standard Oil Company of Indiana, stated the company would continue to pay dividends at the rate of 40 cents a share quarterly as long as conditions warranted and that dividends at that rate could be regarded as regular.

Mr. Stewart said he had no fear of foreign oil being laid down in this country in sufficient quantity or at price levels which would affect the American Petroleum industry.

Earmarked Gold Sharply Higher

NEW YORK, Dec. 23.—The daily gold statement of the New York Federal Reserve Bank yesterday showed an increase of $7,498,000 in gold earmarked for foreign account. Imports totaled $1,995,400 from Canada. Exports amounted to $350,000, of which $300,000 went to France and $50,000 to Venezuela.

The bank has been notified that $7,474,000 of gold from Japan has been received at San Francisco.

Copper Producers Renew Tariff Talk

NEW YORK, Dec. 23.—(AP.)—Discussion of a copper tariff was renewed today among some producers, following publication of the Tariff Commission's report to the Senate in Washington yesterday.

The finding of the commission that domestic cost of production of the refined metal is higher than foreign costs led to the belief in certain producing circles that the fixing of duties on copper was only a matter of time.

January Maturities Total $108,232,730

NEW YORK, Dec. 23.—Corporation bonds and notes falling due in January, 1932, aggregate $108,232,730 against $91,484,030 in December and $95,045,980 in January, 1931. In addition, $6,980,500 of foreign government loans mature, bringing combined maturities up to $115,213,230.

Public utility maturities lead with $57,914,000. Railroad maturities are unusually small with a total of only $23,705,690, mostly equipment trust certificates.

Federation of Labor Sees Gloomy Outlook

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

A GLOOMY FORECAST for the new year has been made by the monthly survey of business of the American Federation of Labor. The economic department of this organization says:

> "Unquestionably recovery from this depression will be a long process. We must look ahead to at least a year of unemployment almost at present levels. With widespread improvements in plant efficiency introduced in the last two years, we are continually increasing technological unemployment. Unemployment funds cannot last; the adjustment of work hours is essential. Industrial activity will continue for some time between from 20 to 30 per cent below 1929. The American people in general must live on a much smaller budget this year."

The Federation of Labor survey is of interest since it shows a new viewpoint on the causes of business depression, its remedies and the time needed for recovery. Much has been said during the past two years by the employers of labor—comparatively little by the representatives of labor.

Overproduction Blamed

THE SURVEY DECLARES that between 1923 and 1929 the total production of our mines, farms, factories and construction industries increased in annual value from $84,000,000,000 to $98,000,000,000. The purchasing power of wage earners also increased during this period, but, while total production gained $14,000,000,000, wages increased only $6,000,000,000.

The survey expresses the opinion that installment buying obscured this situation for a time, but the preponderance of production over consuming power finally showed itself in declining industrial activity. During the years of prosperity, new machinery in factories increased the producing power of the average wage earner, so that work which required three men in 1919 was done by two in 1929. Factories produced 42 per cent more product with 200,000 fewer men. As a result men were thrown out of work and unemployment increased by 900,000 from 1923 to 1929.

Surpluses Cause Trouble

DURING THE SAME PERIOD corporation profits increased from $8,000,000,000 to $11,000,000,000, according to the survey. Accumulation of these billions, either as surplus funds in the hands of corporations or in surplus incomes of stockholders made possible the spending of huge sums in two unwholesome ways, according to the labor analysis. Too much producing capacity was added to industrial plants, and funds were made available for excessive stock speculation. The combination of these conditions precipitated the business depression, according to the conclusions reached.

These statements, like nearly all statements explaining the depression, are debatable, but they throw an interesting angle on the problem. The Federation of Labor believes that, if the distribution of income had been more equitable and if the purchasing power of wage earners had been increased in line with corporation earnings, there would have been a chance for consumption to keep pace with production. As things stand, the survey sees a shorter working week as the only solution. It declares that there is at present only enough work to give 35 hours a week if everyone who wants to work is to have a job.

STOCKS SLIDE IN LISTLESS TRADING

Numerous Declines of 2 to 4 Points Appear; Steel, Telephone Among Losers

NEW YORK, Dec. 23.—(AP)—The stimulating effects of the improvement in bonds appeared to have worn off, as far as the stock market was concerned, and share prices relapsed in listless trading today.

Traders found little incentive to increase their commitments in shares in advance of the holiday and hazardous year-end selling fell on a thin market. Losses of 2 to 4 points were numerous.

Shares off about 2 to 4 points included United States Steel, American Telephone, Allied Chemical, North American, Westinghouse, Case, American Smelting, American Tobacco, New York Central, Southern Pacific, New Haven, Union Pacific and Santa Fe. Declines of a point or so were numerous. Recent selling of the oils, however, appeared to have subsided.

Railway stocks were notably heavy and may have been influenced by the unions' rejection of the rail wage reduction plan proposed in Canada.

Midweek trade statistics were in line with seasonal trends. Freight loadings for the week ended December 12 fell off 22,832 cars, a much smaller loss than for the corresponding week of last year. Holiday shutdowns, Iron Age said, have reduced steel ingot output to 21 per cent of capacity, although finishing mills may operate at higher schedules. Most of the current orders are for shipment next month. There was some further weakness in steel prices.

GUTHRIE HEADS DOLLAR BANK

Francis S. Guthrie, who began his business career as a bookkeeper with the Dollar Savings Bank, Fourth avenue, 30 years ago, has been elected president of that institution.

Guthrie will succeed Samuel Bailey, Jr., as the head of the only mutual savings bank in Pittsburgh January 1, 1932. Bailey previously had advised the board of trustees that on account of pressure of private business he could not accept re-election. Guthrie will devote his entire time to the bank's affairs.

The retiring president has been an officer of the Dollar Savings Bank since August, 1915. Bailey will continue as a trustee of the board and at the recent election was elected a vice president.

Guthrie, who is vice president of Edwards, George & Co., was elected a trustee of the Dollar Savings Bank on March 19, 1909, a vice president December 1, 1924, and has served as an active member of the executive committee for a number of years.

Officers re-elected by the board of trustees were William E. von Bonnhorst, treasurer; Elmer S. Stamer, secretary; Henry H. Latshaw, assistant secretary and assistant treasurer, and Hill Burgwin, solicitor.

Since 1915 the deposits of the Dollar Savings Bank have grown from $33,866,699 to $46,131,801, and the surplus from $1,169,088 to $4,082,997.

JANUARY STEEL GAIN SEEN

NEW YORK, Dec. 23.—Downward readjustment of prices of some steel products, notably sheets, and continued weakness in others, mark the year-end recession of activity in metal working industries, Iron Age said today.

Holiday shutdowns have reduced the rate of ingot production for the week to 21 per cent of the country's capacity, but finishing mills may operate at somewhat higher schedules as the idleness is more general in steel making than in rolling departments.

General consumption of steel has shown no marked change, but curtailment is forced by the unwillingness of consumers and distributors to take in material until January 1. With expected replenishment buying and larger releases from the automobile industry, many of the steel companies expect they will be able to resume operations early in January at rates varying from 30 to 35 per cent.

This week's changes bring the Iron Age finished steel and composite prices down to 2.075 cents a pound, the low of the year, and the lowest since April, 1922.

Forbes

Courage Can Bring About Better Times

By B. C. FORBES

IT TAKES courage not to cave in these days. Courage is the one thing essential to restore confidence and recovery. Fear has preyed and paralyzed too long. Today's lamentable conditions are less the consequences of what has actually happened than of panicky apprehension over what may happen.

Mr. Forbes

"No tree ever quite reaches Heaven" was a reminder given oftener than once in this column during the dizzy 1929 ascent. "No tree ever quite reaches Heaven—or the other place," is the reminder tendered now.

THE PRESIDENT of a middlewestern company, A. W. Gutterson, has sent to all his employes and customers a message worth pondering at this time. After quoting various doleful things which "they say," he proceeds thus vigorously:

"THESE THINGS I DO KNOW":

"We may have less to live on—But we have just as much as ever to live for!

"We may own less—but no man is rich because he owns something. Only those men are truly rich who have become something!

"Our cash income may be less—but the happiness that comes from sharing and serving is just as deeply satisfying as it ever was!

"We may have more pressing business problems to solve than at other times—but these days are teaching us that business is the process of learning to live usefully and triumphantly—that it is not a mere dollar chase!

"We may find it necessary to change habits and methods—but we are glad that character is still more important than possessions and right motives still have more effect on our progress than selfish desires!

"We may have need for more courage and more faith—but the loyalty of our associates and kindliness of our friends warms the heart more than it ever did!

"We may be tempted to be discouraged or tired—but little by little we are learning that a sportsman finds fun in the playing of the game—not merely in the winning!

"We may feel that conditions beyond our control have robbed us of what we thought we had—but we are rich in knowing that nothing can rob us of what we are!

"This so-called 'depression' is not a disaster—it is a challenge!

"A challenge to the manhood that is in us.

"A challenge to our courage and gameness.

"A challenge to our ability and adaptability.

"A challenge to our patience and persistence.

"A challenge to our faith in right thinking and right acting."

New York City Pays High Interest Rate

NARROW RANGE IN LOCAL STOCKS

Fuel Issues Hold Close To Last Night's Prices; Screw & Bolt, Mesta Off

Business on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange was fairly well scattered in today's session, with prices maintaining a steady tone at levels only fractionally away from last night's finals.

Approach of the holiday tends to restrict market, but the general tenor of the list is good and there has been no evidence this week of the distress selling which marked the early days of last week.

Lone Star Gas continued to lead the dealings. Several hundred shares came out in the early market in a restricted price range close to the 7⅝ level at which it finished yesterday. Other fuels were dull.

A few of the industrials slipped back a little, but there was no noticeable pressure in this division. Mesta Machine was off a point at 20 and Pittsburgh Screw and Bolt fell back ¾ to 3½. Harbison and Blaw-Knox were steady.

Revenue Freight Loadings Lower

WASHINGTON, Dec. 23.—(AP.)—Revenue freight loadings for the week ending December 12 were announced today by the American Railway Association as totaling 613,534 cars.

This was a decrease of 22,832 cars below the preceding week and 130,819 below the corresponding week in 1930.

Nevis Is Shocked When She Sees Olive in Arms Of Her Husband

CHAPTER VI

Carter was often at the Lancasters. More often when Bill was not at home. Nevis fell into the habit of looking for him those crisp, cold autumn afternoons, of going with him, ostensibly to observe the Waterford house and its progress and of gravely discussing the swimming pool which the Waterfords had planned—a last minute enthusiasm on Fluff's part. And then perhaps they would walk through the woods on the Waterford property and end up somewhere for tea, generally at Nevis'.

Synopsis

Nevis and Bill Lancaster, young newlyweds, leave the little Pennsylvania town where they were raised and go to New York. They lease a small apartment and Bill becomes a bond salesman. As he succeeds, they take a house and entertain beyond their means to make an impression. Nevis sees little of Bill. She disapproves of their extravagance, but Bill assures her it is necessary to promote business. Then Bill meets the flirtatious Olive Blanchard, who makes no secret of her designs on him. When Nevis suggests a vacation, Bill tells her he has been invited on a big fishing trip by Mr. Bartlett, a prospective client. Nevis, furious, asks him if it was business which accounted for his attentions to Mrs. Bartlett at a party. Bill believes Nevis should help him by accepting the attentions of men they meet in a semi-social way. Nevis visits Della Hunt, a friend, and meets Harry Carter, the well known architect. A car drives up to Olive's home, across the street, and Nevis is stunned to hear Bill's and Olive's voices.

Now Go On

She told herself that it didn't mean anything. She was lonely. She found time very heavy on her hands. Carter lightened it. He was very entertaining, the most sophisticated person she had ever met. A good deal older than herself, he was experienced, traveled widely, with the broad streak of the artist running through him which is common to the successful men of his profession. He'd wanted, he said, to paint. He had a flair for drawing, for line. But none for color. That is, he could see color, could feel it, but it wouldn't flow from his brush. So he had turned to architecture, the "frozen music" of the arts, often the stepchild of the arts, and had put into libraries and hotels and great office buildings and lovely houses all the desire for beauty and the expression of beauty which had gnawed at him all his life long.

Something of a cynic and therefore sentimental under his cynicism, something of a romantic, something of a dreamer, who directed his dreams and watched them flower, not into poetry or prose or landscapes fixed on canvas but into steel and brick and stone, something of an adventurer, this was Harry Carter. He was the exact antithesis of Bill Lancaster. "And yet," said Nevis to herself in some astonishment, "he attracts me a lot. I wonder why? I thought women ran to type."

She admitted the attraction, looked it full in the face, found in it no distress signal to warn her, no least slightest disloyalty to Bill. She liked Carter, he amused and flattered her. She loved Bill. There was all the difference in the world. She'd never burn her fingers at Carter's tutored flame because, she reminded herself quaintly, you couldn't love two men at the same time, could you?

ADMIRES CARTER'S HOME

So at first it was nothing but an innocent excursion into to her, a new country of mind and personality. Carter went back to town, the Waterfords moved into their new house and gave a Christmas house-warming. And Carter began a series of dinners, large and small, in return for all the hospitality he had enjoyed at Westlynne. Bill said, yawning, spending the short remainder of several nights in a New York hotel, "Good Lord, I thought we moved to the country so we could avoid this sort of thing and here we are chasing up to town and back again like a couple of wet hens."

Nevis was at the big dinner—with Bill of course—and at the small ones. The sheer studied beauty of the home in which Carter lived took her by the throat. She said to him her first evening there, "But it's too utterly lovely."

They were standing alone on the roof looking out over the Park and reservoir and the lines of lights among the trees, looking down to the great bulk of the Plaza, the Sherry-Netherlands, the Savoy-Plaza with their towered yellow lights, looking down, far down at the Avenue, the street lamps like exotic golden fruit, and at the lines of moving cars.

Carter said, "I like it. And it becomes you, Nevis. I told you that I knew your right and perfect setting . . . no, not quite right, not quite perfect. I doubt if the hand and brain of man could achieve that."

She said, laughing, knowing him she thought fairly well by now, "That's a bit thick, Harry. Laid on with a trowel."

He said, seriously: "No. This place is perhaps a little too assured for you. A little too conventional. A little too sophisticated. You are like a gypsy, not quite tamed, with your pointed dark face and your great dark eyes and your cap of black curls and your very red mouth at which I never look for long, being subject to entirely human desires and temptations."

Nevis said, lightly, a little stirred in spite of herself by the cold clear starlit night, the romantic aspect of the city as it lay below her and the hushed, shaken tone of the man's voice, "I've always been taught that when a man starts talking about red mouths it's time to change the subject and the surroundings."

EVADES HIM

She slipped from him, evading his outstretched hands, and went back into the enormous living room where some of the others were around the card tables. She was laughing. She held her fur wrap at the throat and her face was dark and brilliant above it, her color was high and her eyes danced. Olive said, casually, to Bill, "Harry certainly knows how to bring out the best in women."

"What do you mean?" he asked, not caring.

Olive, in the sort of carefully careless gown built to slip from white shoulders, replied merely, "Look at Nevis!"

Bill looked with possessive pride.

"She's worth looking at, isn't she?" he agreed.

Olive sighed and shook her head. Bill Lancaster was the most difficult man she had ever met, save, perhaps, that very charming Austrian a year or so ago with whom she had been violently in love.

Yes, Gottschalk had been difficult, very. But Bill was more so. Bill, who wasn't in the least like the Austrian save for his blondeness and his build. Bill, who was an utterly charming person, very forthright, very young, very, at times, stupid.

But Olive had been born with a sort of itch of the fingers which couldn't let other women's men alone and had to linger on coat sleeves. She had so much money that she thought it didn't matter what she did. One law for rabble and one for herself! Of course Bill Lancaster had been married under two years and had a very attractive wife with whom he was allegedly in love. So much the better. No good huntsman wants a quarry so tame that it will come up and eat out of the hand; no Diana, chaste or otherwise, desires a man whom no other woman wants.

Bill was getting uncomfortable about Olive. Of course, he understood that it was a game and two could play it better than one. It didn't mean anything. It was the mode of the moment. Perhaps he had listened. Perhaps he had kissed her once or twice and been a bit terrified, although, naturally, enormously flattered at her effective response.

But it didn't mean anything. Besides, he was in pretty solid with old Blanchard who, completely blind where his daughter was concerned, saw in Bill and Nevis a nicer young couple than most, a "good influence." It was due to Blanchard's willingness to listen when Bill talked of five-and-a-half-percents that Bill was enabled to buy a new car that next spring and retain the old one, so that Nevis should have some means of conveyance when he was in town.

You don't look a gift horse in the mouth. Not that Olive looked like a horse, either; not that Bill entirely disregarded her mouth, which was magnificently painted and a little overripe, having that much-kissed look common — very common — to a great many women.

But by spring Harry Carter was losing patience. He was very much in love, as his wife, returning from the South and then trotting off to Europe, knew. "Poor Harry," she thought. "Well, he'll get over it." But she was curious enough to find out by easy stages who the latest was. Finding out, she whistled. "Fraid," said Mrs. Carter, "Harry'll come a cropper this time." She met Nevis at a bridge in town and liked her. "Nice little thing," said Mrs. Carter, "and pretty as the devil." But she told herself, "Harry's slipping. I won't be long now. He's got to settle down sometime. This is the first time I've known him to pick a filly." Married, of course, but recently so and in love with her husband, however. Or so rumor said.

Nevis was shocked when she saw the girl in Bill's arms.

Kay Carter was not a martyred wife at all. In her own fashion she enjoyed life immensely. Conscious since childhood of her own lack of purely feminine allure, she had accustomed herself to it, not without, perhaps, heartache and tears in the old days. But no longer. And she had, she told herself repeatedly, the best of Harry. The best. She had his sons, his sincerely devoted concern and his unalterable friendship. The best, she thought, watching the merry-go-round of Manhattan and other places, the best, possibly, of any man. And possibly she was right.

* * *

In the late spring several things happened. The first one was that Nevis saw Olive Blanchard in Bill's arms.

It was at the opening of the club. A dance . . . and dinners before . . . cocktail parties before that. Bill had had too much to drink. So, it may be, had Olive.

He was, as he afterwards if unnecessarily admitted, only human. A man desires, of course, his right of selection. But Olive had never been unattractive to him and he was no more immune to the not very subtle flattery of knowing himself the object of the race, the end of the hunt, than is any other male person. Nevis? He loved Nevis. This was different. But his and Nevis' love was all cluttered up with the dulling domesticities, the usual arguments, the quarrels, the ceaseless talk of expenditures, ways and means, the household routine. Olive was not concerned with, or in, this. She was sheer woman, offering herself, if not openly then quite openly enough. He hadn't the remotest idea how she ran her house, what she spent on her clothes, how she looked with her make-up off and her hair disheveled. He had never seen her with a cold in her head, a pain in her tummy or in the throes of a bilious attack. As far as he knew, she was always as he saw her, detached from the commonplaces of every-day living, ingeniously gowned, heavily touched with perfume, murmurous and at times enticing.

The night of the club dance was such a time.

Nevis, stumbling on the two of them, stepped back into the arms of Harry Carter who had followed her. She said: "Oh!" and put her hand to her throat in the immemorial gesture of stricken women. Carter asked: "What is it?" and she answered quickly, her control returning: "Nothing. Some people. It doesn't matter. Let's go out the other way." So she had led and he had followed, but not without a swift backward glance at the cause, or causes, of Nevis' disturbance. He did not see clearly but he saw enough to put one and one together and get Olive and Bill. He thought, watching Nevis during the hours which followed, observing her almost hysterical gaiety: "Old stuff, terribly old stuff. But it serves."

And if Nevis, during the moonlight dance when the lights were out and only a small mischievous baby spotlight wandered about the floor, picking out now this couple and now that; if Nevis permitted him to bend his tall head and touch his lips lightly and casually to her hot cheek, he knew why; he knew it was because of her resentment and the childish desire to get even. Not that that evened things, but it was a beginning.

It wasn't due, he knew ruefully, to any great charm in himself. But that he had charm, for women, he knew quite as well. No use rushing things. Nevis was used to him now. She considered him her friend, had told him so. Liked being with him; had told him that. Laughed at and with him, argued hotly on any known or unknown subject and was completely at home with him. A rather bitter dose to accept. But medicinal. He knew, however, that a woman may become accustomed to a man, find him as easy as an old shoe and then one day regard him with altered and startled eyes, as a stranger—an interesting stranger, the sort the fortune-tellers whisper about.

"A tall, dark man is coming into your life, little lady."

More often than not the tall, dark man has been there for a long time, only so familiar an object had he become that you just didn't see him.

It was only fair that Nevis taxed Bill with what she had seen on the club veranda, and taxed him in no uncertain terms. She was no inhuman heroine to suffer in silence and to argue that "he will come back to me."

SUN-TELEGRAPH-WARNER THEATERS JUNIOR KOMIC CLUB

This week's celebration will reach a climax tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock, when a free show for the Junior Komic Club and all other children will be given at all the Warner neighborhood theaters, the Davis, Smithfield street, and Warner out-of-town houses in the Pittsburgh district.

For the past two weeks the Etna Harris chapter has been giving as prizes for contests articles that would serve as Christmas gifts for the mothers of members. The winners Saturday were Lucille Wissolic, Rita Heffler and Elizature at Saturday's meeting was Vero, the magician, who gave the children a fine show and performed some new magic tricks. The Barrel of Fun went over big, as usual, and the prizes were in the nature of Christmas gifts from Manager Morty Henderson. The announcement that "The Candy Man Who Grows Tall" will be at the Etna Harris meeting the day after Christmas, brought a round of applause.

PRINCE AMBRIDGE

The Prince Ambridge Chapter has a well-organized entertainment committee. Members wishing to perform on the stage are taken through their steps and songs by Miss Florence May of May's School of Dancing before the meeting. If they are not quite ready for a public appearance they are given a lesson and may have a hearing the following week. The following members were put in the eligible class at the last meeting and will perform Saturday: Francis Walko, Gertrude Volenta, Hannah Kyr, Flora Davition, Marie Stroughton, Mary Uffleman, Anna Mihalich, Anna Pastrick, Mary Prokoporich, Anna Lazarisack, Ruth Wrono, Betty Neubauer, Alfreda Waskiewicz and Olga Zwatykanich.

Marie Simon, acting master of ceremonies, introduced the following acts: Recitation, Myrna Heberling; song and dance by Winifred Barclay and an acrobatic dance by Jean Knauss.

The fourth number on the program was a little play entitled "The Night Before Christmas." In the cast were Ellen Llewellyn, Gertrude Valenta, Marie Straughen and Julia Ganley.

The entire group then sang Christmas carols and popular songs under the leadership of Miss Marie Thomas, organist.

TRAIN GIVE-AWAYS

Two big electric trains were given away at the meeting. One went to Helen Novack and the other to Oscar Habich.

The Prince Ambridge is one of the most wide-awake chapters.

IF IT DIDN'T COST TOO MUCH I'D BUY THEM A MEMORY TRAINING COURSE SO THEY'D REMEMBER SOME OF THE STUFF THEY BORROW FROM US

ALL I GOT FROM THESE NEIGHBORS WAS A FEW CIGARS SUCH AS SHOOTING GALLERY MEN HAND OUT-OF-TOWN CUSTOMERS.
I DON'T KNOW WHAT TO GET FOR RELATIVES, EITHER. ONE GOOD THING ABOUT THEM IS THAT YOU KNOW BEFOREHAND THEY DON'T INTEND TO GIVE YOU ANYTHING.
EVERY YEAR WE FIND OURSELVES IN THE SAME BOAT. GENERALLY ALL WE GET OUT OF GIVING PRESENTS IS A TOUGH LETTER FROM EVERY CREDIT MAN IN TOWN.
WELL OF COURSE WE SHOULDN'T BE TOO MATERIAL ABOUT CHRISTMAS. THE IDEA OF GIVING PRESENTS WITHOUT EXPECTING A BIGGER ONE IN RETURN IS VERY BEAUTIFUL, ESPECIALLY IN OTHERS.

FRISBY PLANS PREPAREDNESS

WASHINGTON MONUMENT — Congressman Horace Walpole Frisby late last night wrote in colored chalk on the sidewalk, his plan for defense. "My plan is entirely simple," said the people's pal. "I can save the Government money. We have, gracious knows, how many doormen, in front of theaters and hotels, who have handsome uniforms. All I want to do is to drill these brave boys in war maneuvers, which will swell our standing army tremendously. Then, in case of war, we are ready, with the possibility of motion picture ushers for shock troops. Wouldn't it be wiser to send these men first before we waste our fine, young manhood? Your Mr. Frisby says yes—and when he says yes he means yes."

Points of the President's Message

Number 12

President Hoover has just transmitted to Congress the power trust plan for the power trust operation of Muscle Shoals.

Although built and paid for by the government, Muscle Shoals Power Plant would be exploited by the power trust under the plan for its disposition set forth in the President's annual message to Congress.

The country looks to Congress to reject this plan and protect Muscle Shoals from control by the power trust.

Under the plan transmitted by the President Muscle Shoals would be turned over to the power trust for 50 years.

As the Hearst papers have already pointed out, no municipality, no county and no farm organization, under this power trust plan, could get any surplus power developed at Muscle Shoals unless they bought it from a private transmission line, which would mean buying it from the power trust.

Under this power trust plan, which Senator Norris, of Nebraska, truly says is the proposal of "ANOTHER HOOVER COMMISSION APPOINTED TO CARRY OUT HOOVER IDEAS," the power trust wolf would be turned loose "under the cloak of relief to the farmer" to exploit one of the public's most valuable power properties.

DURING THE GREAT WAR $158,000,000 OF THE AMERICAN PEOPLE'S MONEY WAS INVESTED IN MUSCLE SHOALS AND ENGINEERS OF THEIR OWN GOVERNMENT BUILT THE POWER PLANT WHICH IT IS NOW PROPOSED TO LEASE FOR PRIVATE EXPLOITATION.

Muscle Shoals can furnish one of the largest single blocks of power East of Boulder Dam and South of Niagara Falls.

All parts of 10 states can be served by this most valuable public enterprise if only Congress will prevent its exploitation by the power trust.

Congress should lose no time in turning the light upon this whole power trust scheme and keep the light turned on until the public clearly understands what the scheme involves.

A congressional investigation of this power trust plan for its own exploitation of Muscle Shoals should be started at once.

And Congress might well begin this investigation by finding out how much the power trust subscribed to the Republican presidential fund of 1928.

When Congress finds that out it will be able to estimate how much the power trust expects to subscribe to the Republican presidential campaign fund of 1932—provided Congress is fatuous enough to turn Muscle Shoals over to the power trust under the pretense of relieving the farmer.

The New Postoffice

Letting of the Contract for the Federal Building Marks The Finish of a Long Campaign.

e contract for Pittsburgh's new postoffice was let yes.

And thereby a dream that has long been dreamed was brought nearer realization, and a hard campaign terminated.

It is fully 25 years ago that Pittsburgh began to feel the pinch of cramped quarters in the Federal Building. And it was thought that relief was in sight when Leslie Shaw, the then Secretary of the Treasury, came to the city to look at sites suggested for a new postoffice.

But one disappointment followed another, as delay after delay occurred. It has taken a quarter of a century of incessant agitation to bring the project to the happy stage that has now been attained.

It is regrettable that a local concern did not get the contract. But the successful bidder presumably will employ local labor.

The Sensitive New-Poor

The Sun-Telegraph Offers an Opportunity to Play Santa Claus for Unfortunate Children.

The poor we have always with us. But this year we have a different kind of poor from those to which we are accustomed—the new-poor who have been reduced to poverty by the industrial depression.

Many of these new poor never experienced poverty before, and are finding more difficulty in adjusting themselves to the situation than those to whom it is an old story.

The new-poor are particularly unforunate because their pride and self-respect impel them to conceal their condition, and consequently they are deprived of relief that would go to them if they were not so sensitive.

The lot of their children is pitiful. But the Sun-Telegraph has found a way by which Christmas happiness can be brought into these homes. It has obtained the names of many of these little boys and girls confidentially from Ben Graham, superintendent of schools, and will impart them in confidence to anyone who is willing to play Santa Claus in a tactful way.

If you would like to obtain the names of children who are not likely to have any Christmas gifts this year unless you come to the rescue telephone the Christmas Editor, Grant 6500.

Fixing Responsibility

New Rules Covering Auto Fatalities Should Help to Keep Reckless Divers Off the Roads

Clyde L. King, secretary of revenue, announced today some new rules covering fatal automobile accidents.

The purpose is to fix responsibility for such fatalities with a minimum of delay, while at the same time being careful not to be unjust. The effect is likely to be that reckless drivers will be kept off the highways—a consummation to be wished.

Secretary King directs that as soon as the Safety Division of his department learns of a fatal accident the driver or drivers involved must be cited for a hearing, to be held within two weeks.

The inspector holding the hearing is authorized, in case he finds the driver or drivers at fault, to suspend their operating privilege temporarily. But if the accused feels that he has not deserved the suspension of his license he may appeal to a Board of Review.

The new procedure is fair and should promote safety.

What Women Don't Tell

Christmas is the time when the thrifty housewife collects all those weird and useless atrocities which furnish the "perfect guest room."

* * *

If a woman loses her money, that's her own business, but if she loses her heart or her husband, it's everybody's business.

* * *

Sometimes nothing makes a woman so contented with her own husband as a chance meeting with the man she once thought she couldn't live without.

The greatest "harm," if any, that the movies have done, is to cause wives and sweethearts a lot of unrest by showing them how love OUGHT to be made.

* * *

The most dangerous man to the average woman is not the "villain" who pursues her, but the big helpless, boyish man with the winning smile, who inspires her with a yearning to "mother" him.

* * *

When the old-fashioned girl insisted on cooking the boy friend enticing home dinners, instead of dragging him out to flashy, expensive restaurants, she knew what she was doing. She was helping him to save enough money to get married on, and making him LIKE it, at the same time.

* * *

Girls who generously hand out "free samples" of their kisses can hardly expect a man to be eager to put in his order for the entire stock.

There are seldom enough single men to go around, these days—but there are always plenty of married ones who keep right on "going around," just as though they were single.

A man's Christmas present to his wife is always a big surprise—usually to HIMSELF.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Dec. 23.—Despite the long fight to resist encroachments of commerce, that aristocratic area, Old Murray Hill, is vanishing. The J. P. Morgan house and a few other homes with lawns remain. But the rest is given over to towering buildings.

Murray Hill centers about Madison avenue in the 30's. Every effort was made to keep it residential, but the sentimentality has been lost. It offered the last emblem of that New York mellowness that so quickly crystalizes into rush and hurrah.

The Murray Hill Hotel symbolizes its quietism and charm in carrying on with blue glassed lamps out front, expansive lobby and high ceiled rooms. When I came to town Murray Hill suggested the quiet of a mill pond. Far southward the gilt Diana silhouetted in the sky in a graceful poise.

Even the venerable lavender and old lace ladies drove majestically to the park late afternoons in horse-drawn carriages. In the evening was the cheerful glint of open fires in basement dining rooms. There were still gallants with sidewheel whiskers, square crowned derbies and round cuffs.

Such sturdy financiers as the late George F. Baker resided there. No other part of the metropolis displayed such simple sincerity. The sprinkling of old-time boarding houses, with porches, were tinted with this same solidity. Everybody was at home by 10 p. m.

People who came out of the surrounding chaos drew up short in Murray Hill with a sort of tiptoey hush. There was a grim docility about the butlers and coachmen, standing about sucking pipes and conversing in thin whispers.

But today Murray Hill displays galloping brouhaha. Its sidewalks filled with bloods keyed to the tempo of fast ladies. In bayed windows where once an older New York played chess, cigarette smoking flappers play backgammon. Thus an area of calm erupts a hurricane swirl.

No corner in New York gives such an acrid sense of life as the decaying Wendell mansion a few blocks away on Fifth Avenue. It seems saturated with a storybook horror, but since the passing of the aged and eccentric Wendell sisters has plunged deeper into gloom. People nearby refer to it as "that awful house." I never pass by late at night without peering into its jet arabesques and expecting suddenly to hear a blood curdling shriek. The sisters were harmless, entitled to their curtained cloister, but now they are gone and the eyesore should be removed. Too many other things these days bring on what Grandma called the squirms.

While they are tearing things down they can apply a few axes to that uncompleted hospital on West 72nd street without irking me. And I'm mad at that statute in Greeley Square, too.

Eugene O'Neill is not my favorite playwright, although he has the usual outstanding hit. Yet admiration for his self effacement and dignified behavior is greater than that of any playwright in the land. No inducement can draw him to first nights or to make a curtain speech. Only one of the dramatic critics is on familiar terms with him. And but three are favored with a bowing acquaintance. Celebrity functions bore him to distraction. In the flush of success, his face is least known of any in the American theater. Working, he is isolated in Maine or France.

O'Neill, never physically robust, turned out his best work when most men would have taken to beds. He is said to like out of the way haunts, preferably where the brew is worthy, and a select handful of cronies within call.

Special delivery: "Frankly we would like to have you join us for dinner and an evening afterwards. As you know our chief interest is scientific discussion and what to do with a layman at such an affair is somewhat a problem."

Stick me off in a corner, put glue on the ends of my fingers and give me a feather with which to play. But be sure to feed me.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

You don't feel like Merry Christmas this year?
All this depression business has you down?
Yes, I know—
S'tough business for most of us—
But never mind, partner,
GO THROUGH THE GESTURES!

Never mind how you feel;
Don't wait until you find
A reason for being jolly—
Don't wait until you get
That good old Yule-time glow—
For, chances are,
You won't find a reason
Nor get a glow,
Not this season—
But what of it?
Are you going
To gum up the works,
Just because you're glowless?
Be your age!
Cut out the cry-baby stuff!
Hang out a grin
Whether you feel like it or not,
GO THROUGH THE GESTURES!

What's that you're saying—
You won't be a Pollyanna?
Nobody's asking you to.
Going-through-the-gestures
Isn't being Pollyanna.
It's just being CIVILIZED.

That's how civilization happened—
By men making gallant gestures
That they didn't feel—
By men acting brave
When their knees were shaking—
By men acting gay
When their ears were trailing—
By men acting hopeful
When their hearts were hollow—
By men keeping cool
When life was burning them up.

MEN GOING THROUGH GESTURES—
That's how civilization was achieved.
Brotherly love doesn't "just happen"—
Prosperity doesn't "just happen"—
All these good things are achieved.
First there must be the Dream
Of something finer—
Then the Desire
For something finer—
Then the GESTURE—
And then, presently,
After we have dreamed enough,
And desired enough,
And made enough gestures—
THE GESTURE BECOMES A HABIT
AND THE DREAM COMES TRUE.

So if you want Christmases
That are really merry—
And brotherly love
That really works
All the year around,
GET BUSY AND GET GOING!
Cut out the lamentations
And the melancholy prophecies,
And the goat-getting
Economic analyses—
AND START MAKING GESTURES!
Hopeful gestures—
Generous gestures,
Brave gestures—
Start acting as if you believed
In yourself,
In your fellow man,
In your country
And your God—
And presently, bigolly,
YOU'LL FIND THAT YOU DO!

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. MUNDY

Have a hobby, by all means.

Variety in work and environment is restful.

Indolent hours are sometimes more tiring than work.

That is one of the disadvantages of unemployment.

But if you do have hard, confining work it means that a hobby is the thing you should have also, to keep you fit for work.

The man or the woman who thinks, eats and sleeps with only one thing in mind is going to wear out mentally as well as physically.

The hobby should not be allowed to encroach upon working hours.

The bread and butter job comes first—home comes first.

But to be a better business man, to be a better wife and home keeper there should be a hobby for diversion and even for health's sake.

Black Always White, If You Want to Think So

By George Henry Payne

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1, 1951 (Special Dispatch.)—Today Secretary of State Jinxson declared that there was no truth in the reports that the Japanese would land 50,000 troops by airplane outside of San Francisco and 50,000 more at Los Angeles to protect their rights in the Southern Pacific and the Union Pacific Railways, in both of which the Japanese have investments that have not been paying dividends satisfactory to the war board of Japan.

"I played golf yesterday," said Secretary Jinxson, "with Baron Shakalegga, the Japanese ambassador, and he assured me my game was perfect. I can see no cause for worry."

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 2, 1951 (Special Dispatch.)—Over 100,000 Japanese soldiers, under command of Gen. Buttinsi, landed here from the air today and immediately took possession of all railway stations, equipment, etc.

"We are here," said Gen. Buttinsi, "in the interests of peace and order. It is silly to talk about war. This is just an economic movement to protect Japanese stockholders."

Fifty eight Americans were killed and half a Japanese.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4, 1951 (Special Dispatch.)—Secretary of State Jinxson indignantly denied today that large bodies of Japanese troops had landed in California and Mexico.

"It's all newspaper talk," said the Secretary, his coat collar tightly pressed to his linen collar. (Since the Secretary has been criticized for the lack of entente between those [illegible]tions of his apparel he has had his coat lapel sewed to his [illegible] collar).

"I played ping pong yesterday morning with Baron Shakalegga for two hours. He confidentially informed me that some of the Japanese army have a way of wandering off for weeks at a time and telling nobody where they are going. It's just the restlessness of youth and high spirits, he tells me. [illegible] Japanese troops have landed in California it's [illegible] another case of 'boys will be boys.'"

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 4, 1951 (Special Dispatch.)—10 divisions of picked Japanese air troops Gen. Sourmu[illegible] entered this city today and took possession of all the railways.

"We are here," said Gen. Sourmugsi, "to protect the stockholders of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railroad. While it is true that there are no Japanese investors in this railroad, some of our pe[illegible] are thinking of investing and we want to be su[illegible] that they don't go wrong. We have also heard that not so long ago men named Jesse James and Frank James committed lawless acts in this vicinity and under section 4-11-44 of the League Covenant we must protect what may some day be Japanese property from the acts of bandits."

GENEVA, Dec. 5, 1951 (Special Dispatch.)—In response to an urgent message from Secretary of State Jinxson of the United States, the League of Nations council has been in session all night trying to frame a telegram to the Japanese generals who have invaded the United States. Secretary Jinxson has made it clear that he wishes the message to be forceful and clear but that at the same time it must not give offense to the invading army, as the Japanese are very sensitive and very proud. Col. Hawhawhaw, who is here with his microscope to study the actions of the League, sat in as American observer with the council and contributed considerable smoke. The French Premier, M. De Potaufeu, is in favor of drastic action and it is said that he believes that if the Japanese continue to violate the laws of nations he is in favor of raising the tariff on Japanese prints and closing the exhibition of Japanese art in the Louvre three days in the week.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6, 1951 (Special Dispatch.)—Secretary Jinxson today declared that he had had an official admission from Baron Shakalegga that Japanese troops had landed in America.

"This greatly surprised me," declared Secretary Jinxson, with his right hand at the back of his neck to keep his coat and collar together, "and I know that it surprised the Japanese Ambassador also. It seems that they were on their way to China and in some way they got lost. All those statements of the Japanese generals about coming here to protect the railways are not to be taken seriously. Japanese generals are famous for their jokes. Once you get their point of view their humor is really remarkable.

"Above all things else it is necessary for us to be calm. The Japanese are a very sensitive and proud people and they don't like the headlines in our newspapers. Neither do I. If the papers will only print the news about this so-called invasion without headlines, or print only what I give out to the 'boys' who cover the State Department, I am sure everything will be all right.

"In the meantime I am preparing to leave tomorrow for London to arrange to cut our own navy as a further evidence that this country believes in peace at any price."
